EXPLANATION.

Two Indexes have been prepared for descendants of each of the four progenitors. One giving the Christian names of Cranes, the other, names of persons who have intermarried with them; alphabetically arranged.

Also an index of Christian names of Cranes found in the Addenda. In looking for a certain name, unless you know to which line the person belongs it will be necessary to examine each of the five indexes.

The number after the name is the consecutive number. Turn to this number in the body of the book and you will find the person's family record. If the person had no family the number will refer to the birth under the parent's name. If the Index does not give the name sought, find name of the parent, and look through the list of the children. Some names came too late for numbering. Where there are several names alike, the year of birth placed before the name may help to indicate the one sought.

The bracketed [—] number after the name of a parent refers to the number where the person appears as a child. After the name of a parent the pedigree is indicated in parentheses (—) with small figures above, showing to what generation the name belongs, and giving the names back as far as the progenitor of the line.

The following abbreviations have been used: b. for born, m. for married, unm. for unmarried, (s. settled), d. for died.

P R E F A C E .

VOLUME I. of the Crane Family Genealogy, published in 1895, contains an article on Origin of the name Crane; copies of five different armorials belonging to the family; a sketch of the Crane family in England, with pedigrees covering thirteen generations, and a brief reference to the first of the name who came to New England, together with Henry Crane of Wethersfield and Guilford, Conn., and his descendants of nine generations; a list of Cranes who served in Connecticut as lawmakers and public officials; also a list of members of the family who served in the French and Indian, as well as the Revolutionary war, from that State. There has been considerable delay in issuing the second volume, and no doubt some interested persons have become impatient to see the work in print. But the task of tracing the lines from five different progenitors has been no easy one. Special care has been exercised in keeping each line of descendants independent of the other, although they have in some instances intermarried, and in many cases resided for years in close proximity to each other. Volume II. has exceeded in size our most sanguine expectations, for the reason that the descendants of Jasper and Stephen Crane of New Jersey have so willingly assisted in supplying records from private sources that could in no other way be furnished. The early public records of New Jersey, so far as the writer's experience extends, furnish a very unsatisfactory field for the genealogist. During the early settlements there seems to have been no fixed system for recording births, marriages and deaths for preservation. Probate Records have supplied the greater portion of the early records for the descendants of Jasper and Stephen Crane. Some of the early church records, from which much was expected, were found to have been destroyed by fire. The lack of dates has caused a vast amount of trouble in establishing the identity of certain members of the family. Where there seemed any doubt of the identification it has been expressed in the context or by a foot-note.

Although the writer has given a vast amount of time, and a considerable sum from his means in prosecuting this work, still he is fully aware how difficult is the task of collecting material and compiling a work of this nature, and presenting it free from inaccuracies. Every effort has been made to avoid errors, and wherever different dates or conflicting statements have been received regarding the same event, which has frequently been the case, careful investigation has followed in order to determine if possible the correct statement to be used in the book. To the many friends who have in any way contributed to the encouragement of this work the writer would here express his profound gratitude. Among the names of those who have given special aid in its prosecution may be mentioned: Rev. Elias Nettleton Crane, Rev. Oliver Crane and James Eells Crane, all deceased; the latter died Nov. 19, 1893, in Philadelphia, Pa.; William M. Crane, Greenville, Mich.; Stephen S. Crane, Maple Hill Farm, High Ridge, Conn.; Harrison Horton Crane, Middletown, N. Y.; Augustus S. Crane, Elizabeth, N. J.; Miss A. J. Reed, Carmel, N. Y.; Dorothy N. Law, Dixon, Ill.; Anna Russell Vance, Milwaukee, Wis.; Henry Harmon Noble, Albany, N. Y.; Horatio Crain, Key West, Fla.; and J. M. Crane, Kingwood, West Va.

Records of several families needing further proof to define their position in the body of the book have been placed in the Addenda with the hope that some of the descendants may be able to find the connecting link. In some instances the peculiar spelling of names has been retained, believing members of the families would prefer to have them presented in that way.

BENJAMIN CRANE.

WINDSOR was probably the first town settled in Connecticut by the English, and Wethersfield next. The former made its beginning in the year 1633 and the latter in 1634. The people who planted these towns were almost without exception from Massachusetts. In the year 1621 and for many years thereafter practically all settlers bound for New England landed in the colony of New Plymouth or Massachusetts, and emigrated from there to the various settlements of their choice. For several years Windsor, Wethersfield and Hartford proved the chief attractions for settlers locating west of the Connecticut River, although a few planted themselves at Saybrook. Many of those who early settled at Wethersfield came from Watertown, Mass., while the towns of Cambridge and Dorchester furnished a considerable number of the families for Windsor, and Newtown furnished some for Hartford. The emigrants from Dorchester, Mass., named their town Dorchester, now Windsor. Wethersfield was called Watertown, and Hartford was called Newtown. But at the meeting of the General Court of the Connecticut colony in 1637 the present name was decided upon and adopted. This, however, was not the first session of the General Court of this colony. Their first session was held April 26, 1636.

Rev. Henry Smith was the first settled minister in Wethersfield; came there about the year 1636, but was not installed until the year 1640 or 1644, and died 1648.

The early records of Wethersfield are exceedingly interesting and voluminous, yet lack system and completeness. The records of births, with some deaths, are furnished from 1635 to about 1666; and after an interval of some years the record of deaths is again taken up with the year 1670, and the births and marriages about the year 1692. Subsequent to the year 1700 there seems to have been a more complete system of entries throughout all the departments. On the whole, however, the records at Wethersfield are perhaps in as good condition in all respects and are as well preserved as the average of the early New England towns. The entries of dates of births of children of Benjamin Crane senior were apparently made eight years subsequent to the last birth, and records of lands assigned to or owned by Benjamin Crane, senior, in one or two instances, were also apparently entered some years after possession had been given; a fact which, to say the least, shows a slack method of making important records during the early life of the town. But the descendants of this progenitor may congratulate themselves that so much has been recorded and preserved to be used by them in rearing their genealogical tree.

FIRST GENERATION.

1. BENJAMIN CRANE, was in Wethersfield, Conn., as early as 1655, and may have been there a few years earlier. According to the Records of the Particular Court, held at Hartford, March, 1655, he is defendant in a civil suit with John Sadler, pltf.; also in June, 1656, he is defendant in another suit with Richard Montague. He was born about 1630; was made freeman May 12, 1658, at Wethersfield. It is not positively known from whence he came to Wethersfield, but Hinman in his "History of Connecticut Settlers" seems to think that he came from Massachusetts, which statement all investigations thus far seem to warrant. February 24, 1656, the town gave him a home lot of $2\frac{1}{2}$ acres, more or less, bounded by the Common N. W., a brook and the home lot of John Graves N. E., the Common S. E., the highway S. W. He also bought John Dixon's or Dickenson's land in the West Field, Sept. 14, 1664. The latter is said to have removed to Hadley 1659 or 1660. It appears that this last mentioned tract of land was that on which the late home of Sam'l Coleman, deceased, stands, on Mud Lane. It was there when Mr. Crane built his dwelling-house and tanneries. The house was one of the six houses fortified by vote of the town in 1704. The town also gave him three acres of land on Beaver, now Tando's, Brook, in 1660; served as juror 1664; drew land in the allotment of 1670, and purchased land of Daniel Rose, Dec. 8, 1671. January 15, 1673, he is rated among inhabitants of Wethersfield to pay the town 0-4-5 $\frac{1}{2}$; acquires more land next south of Job Whitcomb's, February 22, 1680, March 25, 1680, July 13, 1680; under latter date the land is located on the Connecticut River on road to Middletown and road to Rocky Hill.

May, 1682, Benjamin Crane with others petitioned the General Court for liberty to "erect a plantation in the Wabaynassit country" (Windham County). It was proposed to have a "Town Grant" ten miles square.

He married Mary Backus, daughter of William and Sarah (Charles) Backus, April 23, 1655, and carried on the tanning business about a mile below the village on the Middletown road. The spot for many years has been known as "Old Crane's Tannery Place." At his death, May 31, 1691, his son John succeeded to the business. She died July 8, 1717. Children:

2-1. BENJAMIN, born March 1, 1656; drowned June 20, 1693.

3-2. JONATHAN, born December 1, 1658.

4-3. JOSEPH, born April 1, 1661.

- 9-8. ISRAEL, born November 1, 1671.

We add other entries which may be of interest in connection with the settlement of this estate.

July 10, 1710. Whereas Benjamin Crane senior had a piece of land granted by the town near Rocky Hill, the court gave half to John and half to Jacob. Now John was dead, and Jacob agreed with John Chester for the estate of John Crane, and James Steel guardian for Josiah, son of John, to divide it, Josiah to have the north half and Jacob (his uncle) to have the south part.

June 11, 1711. Mary Crane of Wethersfield, for the love she bore for her grandson, Benonie Crane, son of Abraham, gave him $11\frac{1}{2}$ acres, being on or near a place in Wethersfield known as or called Cow Plain, being one-half of that lot laid out to said widow Crane free and clear.

June 13, 1713. An agreement between the heirs of Benjamin Crane senior and Benjamin, Jr. Jonathan Crane owned three and one-half acres, for which he was to receive £20 current. The heirs of Abraham Crane paid the £20, and Jonathan Crane signed a release to all claims to the estate.

In the year 1693 we find the number of acres land held by the family in Wethersfield, as follows: Jacob Crane, 51 acres $10\frac{1}{2}$ rods; John Crane, 102 acres $15\frac{1}{2}$ rods; Widow Mary Crane, 106 acres 23 rods; Israel Crane, 109 acres 13 rods; Abraham Crane, 116 acres $9\frac{1}{2}$ rods; Joseph Crane, 163 acres 24 rods.

SECOND GENERATION.

11. BENJAMIN CRANE² [2], Benjamin¹ was chosen Rate Maker in 1685. Married 1st Mary Chapman, May 12, 1686, Capt. Benjamin Newbury performing the ceremony. She died April 5, 1687, aged 22 years. He then married Martha Boardman, born August 12, 1666. He was drowned June 20, 1693, in his 38th year. His widow married Samuel Terry of Enfield, June 5, 1697-8, Capt. John Chester performing the ceremony. She died May 29, 1743, in her 77th year, having had five sons and a daughter by her last marriage.

Martha, his widow, exhibited Inventory of estate of Benj. Crane, Jr., January 13, 1693; was appointed administratrix 1693. November 5, 1693, his estate inventoried 55—13—10.

The widow drew land at the allotment in Wethersfield 1694. She was again after her marriage appointed administratrix April 19, 1698. Children :

12-1. BENJAMIN, born Nov. 7, 1690; d. May, 1693.

13-2. ISAAC, born Aug. 19, 1692, d. Sept. 16, 1712, and left his will, dated Sept. 15, 1712; mentions his four brothers by his mother, Widow Martha, who married Samuel Terry, quite likely children by Mr. Terry. After his debts are paid he wills that his four brothers by his mother have all his estate and to be equally divided, but if any of them are sickly or weakly they should have more than the rest, and further said that he counted that they were the nearest relatives that he had. He appeared before the court and made choice of Lt. Jonathan Borman or Boardman as his guardian. This Jonathan was brother of his mother Martha, and born February 4, 1660, at Wethersfield. Lt. Jonathan accepted the charge, and gave bond May 1, 1710. May 2, 1711, he asked the court to require Samuel Terry of Enfield and Martha, his wife, administratrix on estate late Benjamin Crane, Jr., to render an account of said estate. October 6, 1712, court issued the order to report before first Monday of June next. March 2, 1712-13, they exhibited the account. Nearly the whole estate had been expended on Isaac, the only child of said Benjamin. May 4, 1713, Samuel and Martha were discharged.

The life of Benjamin Crane [2], although brief, was rather an eventful one.

April 3, 1685, he purchased land of John Ryley, and his brother John Crane was witness to the transaction.

April 14, 1686, he took a deed from Nathaniel Foot of land situated in Wethersfield on the Connecticut River.

April 14, 1690, Daniel Sayre and his wife Sarah of Southampton, N. Y., deeded to Benjamin Crane, Jr., "Tanner," land in Wethersfield.

January 3, 1692, he took a deed of land situated in "South field," Wethersfield, of Thomas Hosmer of Northampton, Mass.

July 2, 1692, Benjamin Crane, Jr., son and heir of Benjamin, late of Wethersfield, deceased, quitclaimed land to his brother Joseph Crane dated "April 19, in y^e 4th year of y^e reign of our sovereign Lord and Lady, William and Mary" (1692). This document was witnessed by his brother John Crane, and to which both signed their full names. The reader will notice that Benjamin, Jr., was also a tanner; in fact the family seemed to adopt that occupation in connection with the tilling of the soil, Benjamin, Sr., with his brother Henry, Benjamin, Jr., and brother John, all being tanners, and there may have been others of the family who followed that line of business. According to accessible records Benjamin, Jr., seems to have deferred his marriage rather beyond the average for his time. Early marriages were the custom as well as rule in those days, and to defer such an important event until the age of thirty must have required no small degree of independence, fortified with a record of good moral character, for Mr. Royal R. Hinman, the historian, tells us that the general court of the Connecticut colony ordered that no young unmarried man, unless a public officer, or he keep a servant, should keep house alone, except by license of the town, under a penalty of twenty shillings per week; and that no head of a family should entertain such young man under a like penalty without liberty from the town.

Benjamin Crane, Jr., was enjoying the confidence of his fellow townsmen when Sir Edmund Andros appeared as the willing tool of King James II. in the capacity of Governor of New England, and whose subsequent actions, including the demand for the surrender of the charter of Connecticut, were so distasteful to the people that more or less criticism was expressed, sometimes it being not altogether complimentary to the Governor and his associates, and it came to the ears of the officials about Hartford that Benjamin Crane had used language reflecting upon their good name and character.

Those familiar with our colonial history will remember that Sir Edmund Andros, who had been governor of New York, arrived in Boston, December 20, 1686* with a commission from King James II. for the government of New England, apparently the object being to bring all the various colonies under one government, he to be governor-in-chief, with the seat of government at Boston.

December 22 Andros wrote Governor Robert Treat that he was ready to receive the surrender of the charter of Connecticut and assume control of all New England. Governor Treat replied that his people were loyal people of his majesty, and wished to continue as such, and should submit to his majesty's royal commands, even if it be to conjoin his colony with the other colonies and provinces. A very courteous letter, but rather non-committal. June 13, 1687, Andros again wrote, pressing his demand a little harder.

October 22, 1687, he wrote, demanding annexation. October 31 he appeared in Hartford at the head of a troop of soldiers, and formally took possession of the colony, appointed Governor Robert Treat and Capt. John Allen members of his council, and renewed his demand for the charter; but during the debate in the General Court, then assembled in Hartford in the evening, suddenly the lights were extinguished and the charter was carried and concealed in a hollow tree standing on the Willys estate; and this tree was subsequently known as the "Charter Oak."

The people were not willing to give up their charter, upon which all their property rights and privileges as citizens were based. They were not pleased with the proposed changes in the new form of government. They were willing to let well enough alone. Dissensions continued, not alone in Connecticut, but in Massachusetts as well; and after Andros had made his tour on through to New York and return, he reached Boston in October, 1688, to find that public sentiment had become aroused against him; the revolution came, and he was deposed and imprisoned. Escaping from jail he fled to Rhode Island, was there re-arrested, taken back to Massachusetts, and sent to England, and from there he went to Virginia, where he was made governor, but died in London, February 24, 1714. With the downfall of Andros. Where did the power of government rest? was the question that occupied the minds of the people. Should the old officers who were in power when Andros took possession be reinstated, or new ones elected, and who had authority to call an election? These were perplexing questions; good people differed as to the proper course to follow. In Hartford there was a sort of public gathering, at which excitement ran high; votes were taken and doubts expressed as to the result, but at last the vote to reinstate old officers was declared carried, although many persons doubted the correctness of that decision. Governor Treat, however, in October, 1690, when challenged as to his jurisdiction in a trial before the court of assistants, claimed the election to have been legal.

Now it seems that Benjamin Crane, Jr., was among those who opposed Andros, and his assistants, and therefore belonged to the party for retaining the old charter. Andros was no stranger to the people of Connecticut. For many years while governor of New York he had been harassing this colony with his unreasonable demands, even going to the extent of appearing off Saybrook, July 8, 1675, with two vessels filled with armed men to press a landing for the purpose of taking possession of what was then one of the chief ports of that colony, thus attempting to rob the Connecticut people of valuable territory, of which they had held peaceable possession for nearly forty years. This bold action on the part of Andros aroused the blood of the Connecticut settlers, who were determined to hold every foot of land covered by their charter, and so impressed the would-be usurper with their firmness that he abandoned the scheme and went on his way for that time, but to appear in another rôle at a later date. Therefore, in view of the whole situation, it does not at this writing seem strange that when Andros came again to take from them, as they believed, the rights they enjoyed under the old charter the people should express their indignation and distrust. Many of these gentlemen were earnest and outspoken, even using words of contempt for those who were in authority under Andros. Governor Treat, who felt the rebuke most keenly, was determined that the dignity of the office should be maintained; therefore, as a warning to those who would speak ill of their superiors, an order was issued for the arrest of Benjamin Crane, Jr., he perhaps having been the most forcible or severe in his criticism.

Thus the persecution of Benjamin Crane was instituted, he avoiding arrest on the ground of want of jurisdiction. Those claiming authority had received commissions from Andros, he had been deposed, and they had thrown up their commissions; and the question, whether or not there had been a legal election to reinstate the present officials, had not, in the opinion of many people, been fairly settled.

A brief account is given in the following language: "The Court being informed that Benjamin Crane of Wethersfield had spoken some hard words of those gentlemen who had thrown up their commissions, &c., as if they were perjured, &c., they thought there was cause for slander or defamation, so issued a warrant to bring him into court. He resolved not to fall into their hands, absconded, so issued a special rit warrant as they called it to a man that was no officer to take a file of musketeers (musqueteers) and break open his house and serch for him there and aprehend Benjamin Crane and bring him into court. The honest man with the warrant did not know what to do. The people were enraged, and he was liable to be imprisoned if he did not act. So he sends Benjamin notice of it, and then goes with soldiers to the house. Benjamin's wife being big with child near her time, and naturally afraid of guns, kept the door shut against them, and told them her husband was not in the house. But while their leader was at the other end of the house some of the company fetched a log to break the door. She, not thinking they would break in the door, sat where she was near to it. Her brother, seeing them bring the log, told his sister; she no sooner removed than the log came violently against the door and break it, and in they rushed with their arms, frightening her almost to death. Some of the men were ashamed, others very impudent. They found not Benjamin. This woman, though young and naturally robust, on account of the fright had a long and severe delivery, and a long infirmity after it."

This attempt to apprehend Mr. Crane must have been made in the autumn of 1690.

In the court records we find the following :

COURT HARTFORD, NOV. 28, 1690.

COL. ROBT. TREAT, ESQ., GOVERNOR.

Whereas the court October last had complaint made to them of Benjamin Crane of his notorious obscene speaking against the authority's, The said court ordered that as soon as they may, call him to account, and punish him for the same, which by the court was attended to, and the court called said Crane to appear before them, and showed him his charge which was for saying the authority was a company of fore sworn wretches, that it was not of the King nor of God but of the Divile, which he acknowledth in his passion he did say, and also his wishing himself anethema maranatha and that his soule may perish to all eternity if he submitted to this government which was testified against him which he acknowledged he submitted to the testimonie, and the court having considered the case and the circumstances thereof Do judge him worthy of severe punishment as could be well laid upon him, yet willing to be favorable as may be, Do sentence the said Benjamin Crane to pay a fine of £15 to the treasurer of this country and that the said Crane be committed to prison there to continue till the said 15 lbs is paid and at his release he is to give a £50 bond with sufficient security or sureties for his good behavior till the court in March next and that then he appear and take up his bond. The marshall was ordered upon his denyal of submitting to the servace of the court to convey said Crane to the common goale (and have his mittimus with him)."

The court, held Nov. 28, 1690, was made up as follows :

Col. Robert Treat, Esq., Governor,
Samuel Willys,
William Joanes,

Lt. Col. Jno. Allyn,
Capt. Samuel Talcott,
William Pitkin,
Nathaniel Stanley.

Judging from the following court record Benjamin Crane paid his fine of fifteen pounds, but did not appear before the court in March, 1691, and may not have been strictly on his good behavior, for his brother John Crane, who signed Benjamin's bond, was called upon to pay the fifty pounds.

APRIL 8, 1691.

The court ordered " that the clerk of the court do inform John Crane that they require that he return Benjamin Crane to prison, that he do it within two days, and in failure thereof the court resolve to take the forfeiture of his bond."

APRIL 25, 1691.

"John Crane being called three times to appear in court and to bring his brother Benjamin according to his bond. He appeared not, so his bond of £50 is forfeited to the country treasury."

It is a fact worthy of notice that these brothers both died young, and soon after this rather unfortunate political entanglement; Benjamin was drowned June 20, 1693, and John died Oct. 21, 1694.

14. LIEUT. JONATHAN CRANE² [3], (Benjamin¹), married Deborah Griswold, daughter of Francis Griswold, Dec. 19, 1678. She was born May, 1661, and died about 1704. Mr. Griswold was in Windsor in 1649. Went from there to Saybrook, and from thence, about 1660, to Norwich, where he was among the most enterprising of the early settlers. Was called of Windham, Norwich and Lebanon. He died June 6, 1735. He was one of the first settlers of Windham, Conn., erecting the first sawmill in the town. Mr. Weaver says he was known as a blacksmith in 1715.

Dec. 11, 1690, he purchased of John Calkins of Norwich 1000 acres right in S. E. Quarter No. 2. He was at that time called of Norwich.

October, 1696, he was appointed one of the Overseers of the estate of Robert Wade. Appointed by the Assistants a Lieutenant October, 1703. Was chosen Deputy to the General Court from Windham 1701, 1703, 1705, 1707 to 1714, 1717, 1718, 1721 and 1722. Children:

24—10. ABIGAIL, b. Feb. 15, 1700; m. David Knight Dec. 24, 1718, and lived in Norwich, Conn.

At the first public meeting of the settlers of Windham, Conn., held May 18, 1691, Jonathan Crane was one of the four persons directed to run the town lines, which work had been accomplished by May 28, at which time another meeting was held, and he with Joshua Ripley and Jonathan Ginnings were chosen to make division of the meadows at four shillings per day for their services. During the summer he built and set in operation his grist-mill, which was on the site of what is now known as Brigham's Mills.

*Norwich Records by Mr. Weaver. †Windham Records by Mr. Weaver.

Jonathan Crane with ten others petitioned the General Court sitting at Hartford, Oct. 6, 1691, to grant them a Town charter, the town to be called Windham. The petition was granted May 12, 1692. At the first public town meeting, held June 12, 1692, Mr. Crane was elected one of the "Townsmen," and at the same meeting he with Thomas Huntington were directed to take measures for securing a minister. Their efforts were not crowned with success until September of that year, when they agreed with Mr. Samuel Whiting to come and carry on the ministry in that town. He preached his first sermon there January 1, 1693, and the people were so well pleased with him that they ratified the agreement and chose Samuel Roberts and Jonathan Crane "to discourse with him." He was directed to go with two others "to set to rights the lots at the Ponds," also one of three persons appointed "Collectors" to levy and gather rate. He resided on the "Hither Place," now Windham Centre. Was on committee to provide a convenient place for a burying ground; also to run the town lines with Mr. Joshua Ripley and three others. In May, 1695, he was chosen Ensign of a military company, and commissioned Ensign by the General Court in October of that year. January 4, 1695, Mr. Crane exchanged property with Sergt. Wm. Backus, giving his grist-mill and receiving a new dwelling-house in Windham, situated on the house and home lot of Mr. Backus, four acres of meadow lying on the Nochog path by the brook to the little pine swamp, and one acre of meadow in the five-acre meadow. This house and lot was on what was called the Hither Place, and April 11, 1695, Mr. Crane sold it to Exercise Conant, who sold it about one year later to John Abbe of Wenham for £70 silver. In 1696 the town built a house for their minister, Mr. Whitney. The work, except building the chimneys, was accomplished by the townspeople, led in four separate companies or squads, Ensign Crane taking the lead of one of them. That Mr. Crane was one of Windham's most active and influential men there can be little doubt.

January 30, 1700, he with Rev. Samuel Whiting purchased the front portion of William Backus's home lot, it being eight by twenty rods square, and gave it to the town for a "meeting-house plat or common." This lot was afterwards called "Windham Green," and here the first meeting-house was erected. In 1698 he with Mr. Huntington purchased in behalf of the proprietors of Windham a tract of land containing about ten thousand acres, lying between Windham and Norwich, and west of the "Nipmuck Path," called the "Mamosyneage lands." In the year 1700 this tract was made over to Rev. Samuel Whiting and Jonathan Crane. They took the whole care of laying it out into lots and selling them to settlers. Lieut. Daniel Mason publicly made claim to this land on Training-day in Windham, May 13, 1701, he having received a deed of it from one of the pretended Indian owners. But the following September the General Court ratified and confirmed the purchase of Crane and Whiting, and granted them a patent, thus preventing further controversy as to the rightful ownership of this tract of land. In the year 1700 Lieut. Crane received permission from the Court at Hartford "to keep a public victualing house for the entertainment of travelers and strangers, and the retailing of strong drink." Also appointed by the General Court to view Plainfield and see best place to erect a meeting-house; chosen on committee to see the miller and regulate the grinding of corn, it not being satisfactory. October, 1701, on committee to run the town line; October 20, 1702, on committee to see to completing the meeting-house, and April 19, 1703, on committee to arrange the seating of the same. This same year the town agreed to have but "one ordinary, Lieut. Crane to keep it," and the General Court commissioned him Lieutenant. In 1704 he was on committee to run out the line "from Appaynage to the southeast corner of the town and c."

The Indian war broke out afresh in 1704, and Windham reorganized her military company for the protection of the inhabitants. John Fitch was chosen Captain, Jonathan Crane Lieutenant, and Joseph Cary Ensign. Although the people at this time became somewhat alarmed, no serious inconvenience was experienced. In 1705 Mr. Crane was one of a committee to have charge of all town lands; to call meetings to vote on any matters necessary, and to sign the acts to lay out highways, &c. In 1713 the town voted to enlarge the meeting-house, and appropriated £40 to pay for doing the work. The matter was, however, reconsidered, and the subject finally disposed of by deciding to build a new house of worship to meet the demands of the rapidly increasing population. Deacons Cary, Brigham and Lieut. Crane were chosen a committee to agree with the workmen, Mr. Crane to serve as treasurer. The work was speedily and successfully accomplished, the new building having been erected on the site of the old one. In the year 1715 he served on a committee to settle the question whether or not to allow the north parish (Canada) to form a separate religious society. After careful consideration of the matter, the prayer of the petition was granted. In 1726 Jonathan Crane, Joshua Ripley and John Fitch were chosen as representatives of the brethren to act with the newly appointed deacons to constitute the "seven pillars" or councillors of the church. These men were recommended to the pastor, to be called together by him for consultation whenever occasion demanded. Mr. Crane was one of the first set of jurymen empaneled in the County of Windham at the first Court of Common Pleas, holden June 26, 1726. It is reasonable to suppose that more than one occasion demanded the attention of this constituted arm of the Church, the "seven pillars." But we will quote but one, Nov. 13, 1728: "Whereas, the work and business of the pastor of a Church is very great, and particularly the enquiring into scandal and procuring evidence, and whereas, the Scripture informs us that God has set some in the Church to be helps in the government, voted, That it shall be the work of the Representatives of the Bretheren, and they are hereby desired, with all diligence, to attend upon it. That when there is a public and common report that any person belonging to the congregation hath committed any public scandalous evil, to enquire into such report and bring information and evidence to the pastor, provided that this be not understood to hinder the pastor from taking cognizance of any scandal that may otherwise clearly come to his knowledge, nor to hinder any private brother from bringing a complaint whenever there be occasion for it."

The following was taken from the records of Wethersfield: "July 3, 1734: Jonathan Crane of Lebanon Windham Co for the love &c. I have for my two grandsons as follows John Crane of Wethersfield and Abiah Crane of Windham, I give in equal part or share all my right or interest in any lot or lotment of land in Wethersfield. Acknowledged before Jonathan Huntington, Justice."

This John and Abiah were brothers and the two eldest children of Jonathan's son John.

The inscription upon the headstone over his grave in the cemetery at Lebanon, Conn., reads as follows: "Here lies Mr Jonathan Crane husband of Mrs Deborah Crane who lived a pious and Godly life and left y^e earth for heaven March y^e 12th Ano^c 1735, and in y^e 77th year of his age."

25. JOSEPH CRANE² [4], (Benjamin¹), married Sarah, daughter of John Kilborne, Dec. 10, 1684. He died Nov. 28, 1707, aged 46 years. At the distribution his estate was given to his wife and children, as mentioned, "Benjamin, Isaac, Susan Pool, Hannah Purple, and Ester Crane." His widow married Mr. Leonard, and, Sept. 2, 1718, Joseph Talcott, Esq., Judge, appointed this Mrs. Leonard of Wethersfield guardian of her children, Esther, about 16, she desiring the same, and Isaac, about 11, she giving the necessary bond for £100.

Had land given him by his father Jan. 12, 1683, and acknowledged March 5 that year. It was located near south end of "Rocky Hill," in Wethersfield, on the highway towards Middletown.

He purchased of his brother Jacob $4\frac{1}{2}$ acres of land located on "Bever Brook," receiving the deed Oct. 9, 1696. Lot No. 163 on Connecticut River fell to him in the distribution of town lots. Aug. 6, 1697, he purchased a lot containing 24 acres of Michael Griswold. He also owned 21 acres at or near "Tappin's hill" Sarah, widow of Joseph Crane, late of Wethersfield, exhibited an Inventory of the estate Jan. 5, 1707, and was appointed administratrix. Abraham Kilborne had been appointed guardian for Joseph's son Benjamin. Kilborne having died, Benjamin, aged about 16, asked the Court, March 17, 1712-13, to appoint John Wright as guardian, which was done. April 16, 1714, Benjamin asked to have Abraham Morrison of Wethersfield appointed guardian, and that was done.

May 12, 1709, widow was allowed to sell land to pay debts against the estate, and October, same year, again allowed to sell land to pay debts, and save movable property so she and the children could subsist.

Feb. 5, 1710-11, the Court granted further time to Sarah, widow and administratrix, to administer the estate. June 7, 1714, Sarah Leonard reported on estate of Joseph Crane, whole amount £233—0—6. She was to have one-third, and each child their part. June 8, 1714, this appears: "Whereas, the administratrix of the estate of Joseph Crane, late of Wethersfield, is married and moved out of this government, the Court granted letters of administration to Joseph Kilbourn of Wethersfield, which he accepted and gave bonds."

Jan. 18, 1714-15, Abraham Morris was added to administer this estate. May 28, 1715, reported not enough movable property to pay the debts. July 5, 1715, Court ordered 9—6—10 of land to be sold to pay debts.

Joseph Crane, freeman, of Fairfield, Conn., March 18, 1689-90, was without doubt this Joseph, and his nephew and namesake, going there later, as early as 1715.

Widow married 3d Mr. Andrews. Children:

June 8, 1714, Joseph Kilbourn was appointed guardian for Isaac and Esther.

37. JOHN CRANE² [5], (Benjamin¹), married Abigail, daughter of Nathaniel Butler, Oct. 27, 1692. He went with his brother Jonathan to Windham, and built a house there 1691-2. Was a blacksmith by trade. He returned, however, to Wethersfield, and succeeded to his father's business as tanner. He drew land in Wethersfield, 1694. He died Oct. 21, 1694, aged 31 years. She then married Samuel Walker Feb. 23, 1697, having one child by her first husband. May, 1697, the Court granted full power to Mr. Walker and Abigail his wife to sell such part of estate of the late John Crane as necessary to pay debts. By second marriage she had Abigail, Elizabeth and Sarah. Child:

38—1. JOSIAH. b. March 22, 1694.

Nov. 2, 1694, widow Abigail was appointed administratrix, with John Chester, Nathan Butler and John Wyatt to assist her. April 8, 1695, Inventory was exhibited and the estate divided. Widow had one-half and rest to the son.

Nov. 4, 1697, Abigail Walker, relict of John Crane, according to list of estates, 1693, was granted lot 102, containing $15\frac{1}{2}$ acres, on Cow Plain, Wethersfield. Inventory of his (John Crane's) estate was £417—06—04. The rent on the tanyard was due to Widow Crane, senior, from estate of John Crane, March, 1695.

April 3, 1710, William Pitkin, Judge, ordered a writ to require Samuel Walker, late of Wethersfield and now residing in Stratford, with his wife, administrators on the estate of John Crane, late of Wethersfield, deceased, to appear before the Court and render an account of said estate on the first Monday of July next, or sooner if they can.

June 5, 1710, Samuel Walker and Abigail his wife, administrators on estate of John Crane, late of Wethersfield, tanner, deceased, report all debts paid, and said Abigail $\frac{1}{2}$ out of movable part, and there is still remaining in hands of administrators, of the movable part £23—9—9 and the real part £262—0—0 for the use of the son and said heir of said John Crane, deceased.

May, 1713, upon petition of John Wright of Wethersfield, guardian to heirs of Joseph Crane, late of Wethersfield, deceased; Jonathan Belding, guardian to heirs; Israel Crane of Wethersfield, deceased, requested that they, together with guardian that shall be appointed by the Probate Court instead of James Steel of Wethersfield, deceased, who was guardian to the heirs of John Crane, late of Wethersfield, deceased, may be empowered to sell such lands of the minors above said as are due from the estate of Isaac Crane, son of Benjamin, late of Wethersfield, deceased. It was granted.

Under date April 4, 1715, Samuel Walker, administrator of estate of John Crane, tanner, late of Wethersfield, deceased, now under bond. Josiah, now of full age, child of the said John Crane. "Whereas, Josiah received his full share of the estate, as the Court assigned, June 5, 1710, said Walker is discharged; also Isaac Ryley is discharged as guardian of said Josiah Crane." The General Court granted Samuel Walker and Abigail his wife to sell land from estate of John Crane to pay debts.

39. ELIJAH CRANE² [6], (Benjamin¹). Married 1st Mary Sherman, who was born May 8, 1666, daughter of Samuel Sherman, Jr. Samuel, senior, lived in Wethersfield, Conn. She was sister of Theophilus Sherman of Wethersfield. Samuel, Jr., removed to Stratford, Conn, where Mary was born. Elijah Crane owned eighteen acres of land in Great Westfield in Wethersfield, his brother Benjamin signing a release of the same, under date of July 27, 1692. This was witnessed by their brother John Crane. Not many years afterward he removed to Fairfield; for he renewed his covenant with the Church there (Stratfield Parish), town of Fairfield, Feb. 8, 1697; and his wife Mary was admitted to full communion there Oct. 22, 1699. June 1, 1699, Mr. Crane, then of Fairfield, took a deed of 18 acres of land at "Toylsome," in Stratford, of Samuel Sherman, also of Fairfield. Nov. 27, 1701, Mr. Crane deeded land in Wethersfield to his brother Jacob Crane. In the year 1712 he made an inventory of the estate of Moses Jackson, senior, of Stratfield, and witnessed his will. In 1716 he was appointed guardian of William and Benjamin Castle, sons of Joseph, deceased. His wife Mary died previous to March 8, 1719-20, for on that date he with wife Abigail Adams joined in a deed with Daniel, David and John Adams, Isaac Castle (for his wife Sarah), to sell the homestead of Abraham Adams, Jr., deceased, they being his heirs. All were of Fairfield except Isaac Castle, who was of Woodbury, Conn. Mr. Crane's wife Abigail was daughter of Samuel Adams and sister of Abraham. Mr. Crane died just prior to Feb. 7, 1726-7, for on that date Daniel Adams was appointed administrator of his estate and guardian of his children by second wife. Dec. 25, 1734, Theophilus Sherman of Wethersfield, for the love he bore for his sister Mary Crane, deceased, deeded land in Stratfield to Elijah, Jabez, Mary and Comfort, her children. By second wife Abigail he had four children.

An inventory of his estate, dated Feb. 20, 1726-7, was presented to the Court by Samuel Odell, Jonathan Morehouse and Daniel Adams, administrators. In 1730 the estate of Elijah Crane was declared insolvent, and Mr. Jonathan Sturgess and Thomas Hanford were appointed commissioners. 1727, his son Benjamin was made the ward of Capt. Samuel Couch of Fairfield. But Dec. 31, 1739, Benjamin made choice of John Olmstead as his guardian. 1727, his son Israel was made the ward of Ralph Keeler of Norwalk. Children:

- 40-1. ABIGAIL, bapt. May 29, 1698; probably d. prior to 1716.

Drew land in the allotment of 1694. He owned $17\frac{1}{2}$ acres in Westfield, 8 acres in Cedar Swamp and 9 acres in Field. Served as fence viewer in 1699.

Hannah, the widow, with Joseph Belding, were appointed, Aug. 3, 1713, to administer the estate. They reported to the Court Nov. 20, 1713.

The Wethersfield records show that he purchased of his brother Israel land located on the Connecticut River which formerly belonged to Benjamin, senior, Israel signing the deed.

Records of the Probate Court show that Jan. 25, 1731-2, Hannah Crane, administratrix, reported amount of estate of Abraham Crane, late of Wethersfield, £55—9—2, with debts due said estate of £10—8—6.

Oct. 4, 1737, Hannah, wife of Abraham Crane, asked the Court for dower. John, eldest son, had £5—7—10, Benoni, Abraham, Mary, Hannah and Lucy each £2—13—11, of the movable estate. Children:

53—1. MARY, b. Feb. 7, 1697.

59. JACOB CRANE² [8], (Benjamin¹). He lived and died in Wethersfield, Conn. He owned land near Rocky Hill, and his brother Benjamin signed a release to it Sept. 16, 1692, which was witnessed by Abraham Crane and John Talcott. This Jacob Crane drew land in allotment in Wethersfield, 1694, and bought land of his brother Elijah. Deed dated Nov. 27, 1701.

An inventory of his estate was taken Jan. 2, 1718-19, in which his land at Rocky Hill was mentioned; total amount £77—02—04. In May, 1719, upon prayer of Jonathan Crane of Windham and William Warner of Wethersfield, administrators of the estate of Jacob Crane of said Wethersfield, who died insolvent, the Assistants granted permit to sell the lands to highest bidder and report to Probate Court so that the debts or a portion of them can be paid."

Inventory of his estate taken Jan. 2, 1718-19 is as follows: Shock rye, half acre land at Rocky Hill, 4 acres in meadow; total, £77—02—04. He was probably the Jacob Crane who, Sept. 27, 1699, sold land in Springfield he got of Simon Beamon of Deerfield, March 8, 1694-5, to Tiely Merrick.

Sept. 16, 1718, Joseph Talcott, Esq., Judge. "The Court, granted letters of administration on the estate of Jacob Crane late of Wethersfield, deceased, unto Jonathan Crane of Windham and William Warner of Wethersfield, provided they give necessary bond and exhibit true inventory of said estate on or before first Tuesday in November next, and that they render account of their administration on the estate on or before the first Tuesday of September, 1719." Bond was accordingly given and letters of administration taken out.

60. ISRAEL CRANE² [9], (Benjamin¹), drew land in the allotment of 1694. Married Lydia Wright, daughter of James Wright, Sept. 13, 1695, ceremony was performed by Rev. Stephen Mix. He was chosen collector 1700. He died in Wethersfield April 28, 1707, aged 35, leaving a large estate, amounting to £444—18—10. At the division of lots in 1693 he drew lot No. 160, containing 11 acres.

His homestead was valued £130, and he had 4 acres pasture at Town end, 13 acres at Cow Plain, 26 acres at Goosberry Swamp, about 72 acres, besides homestead.

His dwelling-house lot joined the land of Benjamin Crane, Jr. His brother Israel Crane at one time owned north end of the great island pertaining to Wethersfield, called "Wright's Island," in Connecticut River.

May, 1708, leave was granted wife Lydia to sell portion of husband's estate, late Israel Crane of Wethersfield.

May 4, 1713, Lt. Jonathan B. Twing of Wethersfield was asked to be appointed guardian for children. May, 1713, Jonathan Belding was guardian for the children. One of them may have declined to serve.

Mr. Crane bought land April 5, 1693, in Great Westfield. June 2, 1697, bought land on the Connecticut River of Abraham Crane, witnessed by Jonathan Crane; also bought land and small tanyard joining and on south of land belonging to heirs of John Crane, deceased, and north on land of Abraham Crane, westerly on highway; also bought land of Jonathan Crane of Windham. June 4, 1697, deed signed by Jonathan Crane and witnessed by Abraham Crane. Again, he purchased land of Ebenezer Coleman Jan. 13, 1702. Lydia, his widow, made her mark to a deed to Abraham Crane, July 31, 1710, which mentioned tan-vats, buildings, &c. Children:

63—3. ELIZABETH, b. Sept. 23, 1704.

64—4. MARTHA, b. March 19, 1706. She probably never married, for Aug. 17, 1731, she asked the Court to set off $\frac{1}{4}$ the house, presumably to herself and sister Lydia, the other half going to her mother, who had by distribution 1719-20 $\frac{1}{4}$ the four daughters having $\frac{3}{4}$.

Jan. 5, 1719-20, "Whereas administration was formerly granted on estate of Israel Crane, some time of Wethersfield, deceased, the estate remains unsettled, no account rendered, the administratrix being unable to manage it. The Court grants letters of administration to Lt. Jonathan Belding, he giving bond," &c. He gave the bond, &c.

Feb. 9, 1719-20, "Lydia Crane and Jonathan Belding exhibited an account of the estate of Israel Crane. £7—0—0 amount paid out in debts. Whole estate £44—19—6, the movable part whereof is £42—9—6, leaving £437—19—6 to distribution. spelled on records Crain and Crane. His will, dated June 26, 1751, certified Aug. 5, 1751, proved Sept. 10, 1751; inventory Sept. 3, 1751, £3337—7—10, names wife Hannah, children Isaac, Ruth Webb, Adrie Broughton, Ann Babcock, Deborah. 103. JOSEPH CRANE³ [21], (Jonathan,² Benjamin¹). Born in Windham, Conn. When the new meeting-house was built there, he, with a few other young men, in the year 1713, built a pew for their own use. Just the date he left Windham does not appear, but he evidently while a young man followed his uncles Joseph and Elijah Crane to Fairfield, where he married about the year 1719 Mary, daughter of Samuel Couch of that place. She was born Dec. 15, 1695. Mr. Couch gave his son-in-law property in Fairfield, deed dated Sept. 8, 1725. It will be seen by referring to the notice of Joseph Crane's uncle Elijah that after the death of this uncle, Benjamin, his youngest son, was in 1727 made the ward of Capt. Samuel Couch of Fairfield. This Joseph Crane in 1725 took an inventory of the estate of John Allen of Fairfield. But later he appears to have removed to Norwalk, and from there to the place now known as South East, Putnam County, N. Y., locating in the town last mentioned about the year 1730 on the north side of "Joe's Hill," about one mile and a half east of Sodom Corners, where on the east branch of the Croton River he built "Crane's Mill." The site of this mill is now covered by the Sodom Reservoir. Miss Kate Crane, a descendant in this line, writes that recently an old English clock has been found in South East with the following mark inside the case: "Joseph Crane, 1620." This clock may have been a wedding present, and ought ever to be retained in the possession of the Crane family. Counterfeit money was reported in circulation quite early in the history of this new country; but Joseph Crane was among those who were completely exonerated from any connection or knowledge of the matter, as will be seen from the following:

The distributors were Edward Bulkley, Capt. Ephraim Goodrich and Jonathan Smith.

There was a debt due from this estate of Joseph Crane to his brother Jacob Crane. Possibly the following sale was for the purpose of cancelling that debt, or a portion of it, for Benjamin agreed to pay his uncle a debt which was due.

January 28, 1717—8, this Benjamin Crane sold to his uncle Jacob Crane for £31—7—0, 4½ acres of land in what was called Dry Swamp, bounded on west and south by highway and Beaver Creek east and north.

To Benoni and Abraham Crane, Mary Treat, Hannah Crane and Lucy Forbs, each a single share. Joseph Bingham, Judge. Hezekiah May and Joseph Boardman reported distribution of the estate. John Crane of Wethersfield appealed from judgment of this Court to the Superior Court.

July 2, 1771, Nathaniel Copley, whose wife was Mary, daughter of Abraham Crane, deceased, called attention of the Court to some unclaimed common land belonging to estate, and Court ordered it distributed. Children :

- 141—1. ZERVIAH, b. Feb. 11, 1742-3.
- 142—2. ANN, m. Ebenezer Williams.

This Jonathan Crane may have left other children who went to New Hampshire, where relatives of the family did go, settling in and about Surry, Alstead and Gilsum.

There was a Jonathan Crain of Wilton, N. H., who served in the Revolutionary war, engaged March 20 and September 17, 1781, and discharged Nov. 25, 1781; Capt. John Mills' company, Col. Reynolds' regiment. Was he son of the above? Also a Daniel Crain in Andover, N. H., 1771, had lot No. 13 in third division, on which he made improvements; Seth Crane, one of the grantees of Maidston, Oct. 12, 1761; Josiah Crane of Waterbury, N. H., June 7, 1763; also Jonathan Crane, same place; Benjamin Crane, one of the grantees of Middlesex, N. H., June 8, 1763.

These were without much doubt from Connecticut.

143. SILAS CRANE⁴ [82], (Jonathan,³ Jonathan,² Benjamin¹), married Lucy Waterman, Sept. 20, 1742 (Norwich).

Whether Silas Crane was a soldier under Sir Wm. Pepperell of Kittery Point, Me., in the expedition that captured Louisbourg in June, 1745, we do not know of a certainty. But certain we are that he was attracted, as were many others, to that spot known and remembered as Acadia, that region made famous by the muse of Longfellow, and where the broad acres and fertile fields which those French exiles had been forced to abandon were ready to welcome the new hand that should come to toil within their borders. Connecticut furnished her quota of men for that expedition, and ever after that 17th day of June, when M. Chambon, governor of Louisbourg, surrendered to Commodore P. Warren and Sir Wm. Pepperell, some of those undisciplined soldiers, as they were called by the regulars, turned their eyes occasionally in the direction of that fair country which had so generously been offered them by the English government.

Although the right to control these lands had passed back and forth at various times, 1621 to 1755, between France and England, quite a French population were still residents there, and, siding as they naturally did with the Indians against the English, became a constant source of alarm and a serious obstruction to progress among the New England settlements. At last a determination was formed to get rid of them if possible. To that end an expedition was planned, with Sir Wm. Pepperell at its head. Lt.-Col. Wm. Vaughn of Portsmouth, N. H., has the distinction of having proposed the scheme of taking Cape Breton to Gov. Wm. Shirley, who immediately approved it. Mr. Vaughn traveled through the several provinces securing subscriptions of money and engaging men to enlist in the enterprise. Although a resolution was passed by a majority vote in the assembly of Massachusetts Bay Jan. 25, 1744-51, favoring a movement, all preliminaries were worked quite secretly. Virginia, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New Hampshire and Massachusetts were called upon to furnish men and means, Connecticut sending about 500 men toward the nearly 4000 furnished by the colonies to act in conjunction with Commodore Sir Peter Warren, then commanding his majesty's fleet, stationed along the Atlantic coast, then at West Indies. Enlistments began February 2, and by the latter part of the following month 3000 men were on the way to Canso. They were followed by others, and April 30 the army was drawn up before Louisbourg demanding its surrender. Steady constant work was put in step by step, the lines were tightened, until June 16 the stronghold succumbed, and the following day the French governor surrendered to Commodore Peter Warren and Sir Wm. Pepperell, after a siege of 49 days. It was a great victory. It gave to New England a certain degree of security which hitherto she had not known, and opened the way for developing her outlying settlements. The newly conquered territory also became a prize for those who were desirous of receiving a share in the spoils of war. Lord Halifax formed a project by which the English colony of Nova Scotia might be augmented, and in 1749, after being adopted by the government, was set in motion, and the Lords Commissioners of Trade and Plantations issued in March of that year a proclamation by which 50 acres of land was offered to every soldier and sailor who would settle in that part of America, free of rent for 10 years, and not more than one shilling per annum for the 50 acres afterwards. To every soldier and sailor who had a wife and children 10 acres more were offered for every individual in his family, and for every increase that should afterwards happen to the family; to each subaltern officer 80 acres, and 15 more for each of his family, 200 acres to each ensign, 300 to each lieutenant, 400 to captain, 600 to each officer in rank above captain, and 30 acres more for each person in his household. The government also engaged to transport and maintain the new settlers one year at its own expense, to furnish them with such arms, provisions, utensils, implements and tools as necessary to put them in condition to clear and cultivate their lands, build habitations, and commence a fishery. Carpenters and other handicraftsmen were offered same opportunities as soldiers and sailors; surgeons were to receive same as ensigns. Within two months 3750 persons embarked and located the place called Halifax, and for several years government expended large sums of money annually to assist settlers in locating in Nova Scotia. The increase in population was so rapid that in July, 1755, the French that had held on, not being willing to give up all, saw that it was of no use to further contend, and abandoned their possessions, and left the country quite free to the English settlers, and the people of Connecticut as well as other provinces were encouraged to try their fortunes in this new country. About the year 1751 the people of Norwich, Conn., entered into the coastwise trade, building of ships, &c., which opened up communication with Nova Scotia, and many of the people about the eastern portion of Connecticut were anxious to possess some of the abandoned farms left by the exiled Acadians, and Silas Crane with his family were among the number. In 1760 he with his son Silas drew certain lots in the township of Horton—one of 50 acres marked A No. 2, located in Wolfville, about three miles from Grand Pré; he also drew a town lot, one-half acre and three farm lots, Nos. 289, 290 and 291. Silas, Jr., drew farm lot No. 292. These four lots contained 245 acres each, and adjoined the river.

They also had other lands set off to them in the first division, record of which was made in a book which has since been burned. Mr. James Leard, government surveyor for Kings county, 1891, writes: "We know that a majority of the first settlers came from Connecticut; 240 came very soon after the expulsion of the Acadians, and it is said many of them were with Sir Wm. Pepperell at the taking of Louisbourg in 1745." Another company of settlers, including Col. Noble of Boston, being attracted thither in 1755, were surprised by the French, and the colonel, with his two lieutenants and some 70 men, were killed. Mr. James Leard remembers when a boy (many years ago) James Noble Crane, son of Jonatlian, who pointed out to him the spot on his (Leard's) farm where Col. Noble and his two lieutenants were buried between two old French apple trees; but the trees have now disappeared, and nothing remains to mark the spot where they were laid to rest.

In August, 1760, it was claimed that 6000 people from American settlements, principally from Long Island and Connecticut, had recently settled in Nova Scotia. Among the names of those who settled with the Cranes there we find those of John Allen, John Allen, Jr., Jas. Anderson, John Atwell, Benj. Beckwith, Derius, Elisha and Jacob Brown, William, Peter and John Bishop, Sr., and John Bishop, Jr., Obed Benjamin, Timothy Bishop, Richard and Christopher Best, Andrew Belcher, John Burbidge, Jeremiah Calkin, Sr. and Jr., Benj. Cleveland, Wm. Coldwell, John and Jonathan Davidson, Nathan, Jehial and Simeon DeWolfe, Daniel Dodge, Andrew and David Sherman, Robert, William, Samuel Dennison, and their father, Col. Robert Dennison, who went from Norwich, Conn., and were at the siege of Louisbourg, John Eagles, James, Jonathan and Joseph Elderkin, Benjamin Fitch, Wm. Foster, Col. Foster, Noah, Amos and Nathan, Sr. and Jr., Gilbert, and Timothy Forsythe, Samuel Griffin, David and Jonathan Godfrey, Ephraim, Joseph, Gerrish and Jonathan Graves, John, Daniel and Jonathan Hamilton, Sr. and Jr., Lebbeus, Thedeus, Asa, Daniel, Alpheus, Peleg, Gilbert and Ephraim Harris, Sr. and Jr., Jedediah Jordan, David Johnson, Andrew Marsters, Brotherton Martin, Sylvanus Thomas, Christopher, Darius and Martha Miner, Elisha Nichols, Silas and Benj. Peck, Sr. and Jr., Elnathan Palmeter, Roland Rogers, William, Mary, Samuel and James Reid, Charles and Ann Randall, Amos Rathburn, Arthur and Nathan Schofield, John Turner, Jedediar Wickwire, Benjamin and Joseph Woodworth, Samuel Witter, six Dicksons, four Fullars, four Hardings, six Lathrops, three Hoveys, three Blackmans, one Peabody, Amos and Samuel Conover. The latter married Chloe, daughter of Silas Crane, Sr.

Of course it will be noticed that they were not "refugees." They did not leave their country to escape the results of the Revolutionary war, as many others did during that eventful period in American history, but removed to Nova Scotia many years prior to the Revolution, and when that event came it found them in quite different circumstances. Their environments were of quite another sort. Many if not all of them were living under patronage of the mother country. They had been given special privileges under the crown in the possession of their lands, and therefore, as honorable men, were under obligation to stand by and uphold the power that had so recently and so signally befriended them. Children:

214. CAPT. JOSEPH CRANE⁴ [105], (Joseph,³ Jonathan,² Benjamin¹), married Esther Belden. She was born Oct. 31, 1727, and daughter of Samuel Belden. He was a resident of South East, N. Y., and lived and died on the old homestead, and a physician and judge in Dutchess Co. 16 years. She died Feb. 27, 1786, aged 58. He died Oct. 14, 1800, aged 78. He owned a large tract of land situated in South East; also some adjoining it, but over the line in Connecticut. It was called "Joe's Hill." At the foot of this hill, located on the Croton River, stood "Crane's Mill," built by his father. Dates of births and deaths of this family were furnished by Carso Crane from the family Bible.

Feb. 24, 1776, Joseph Crane memorialized the New York delegates in Continental Congress, and the same was received Feb. 26, in which attention was called to his services in the last campaign, and praying the care of an artillery company. After the memorial had been read, action on the same was postponed until the appointment of artillery officers was resumed. March 16 he was appointed Captain Lieutenant to serve in the Artillery Company whereof John Grinnell is Captain, on his (Joseph Crane) producing a certificate that he has been examined and is duly qualified.†

Dr. Crane was one of the most prominent men in the county during the Revolutionary war. Was Chairman of the South East Precinct Committee in 1775 and 1777; also one of the Supervisors in 1773, 1787 and 1789. Was it this Dr. Crane or his son that was ordered by the Provincial Congress, Sept. 17, 1776, with Mr. Duane, Mr. Duer and Mr. Schenck, to inquire into the situation of the Light Horsemen and Lieut. Onderdonck, and report thereon?

From the wording of the above memorial to the Continental Congress by Joseph Crane we understand he had rendered his country service at some prior date, and in New York Colonial MSS., Vol. LXXXV., page 132, may be found the following:

"Muster Roll of a company of Provincials in y^e pay of y^e Province of New York for Dutchess County commanded by Joseph Crane Esq." These from your Honor's humble servant.

THADDEUS CRANE."*

Nearly nine years later the legislature of New York passed, April 22, 1786, an act making provisions for officers, soldiers and seamen, who had been disabled in the service of the United States.

The payment of pensions to the soldiers of New York and other States began, according to the "Ledger Rev. Accounts," March, 1782. "Crane, Thaddeus, major (Col. Thomas' militia), shot through the body; expedition to Danbury, April 27, 1777."

It will be noticed that his petition to the Honorable Council of New York states that he was shot April 26, while subsequent entries give it as April 27.

According to published accounts† we learn that Danbury, Conn., was, in the latter part of the year 1776, selected by the commissioners of the American army as a place of deposit for military stores, and at this time, April, 1777, large quantities of pork, flour, beef, grain, rum, wine, rice, tents, army carriages, besides other valuable articles, had been collected here, and Gov. Tryon, at the head of 2000 men from New York, proceeded by sailing vessel to Fairfield, and landing there Friday, April 25, during the afternoon and night, marched the next day, the 26th, to Danbury, where they arrived at two o'clock in the afternoon. Tryon and his soldiers were met here by a small detachment of Continental troops, who were, owing to the vastly superior number of the British, obliged to evacuate the town; not, however, until they had secured or removed a considerable quantity of stores and provisions; and it would appear from the reading of Col. Thaddeus Crane's petition that it was in the act of holding the enemy at bay and in attempting to save some of these stores from destruction that he received his wound. The next day, April 27th, early in the morning Tryon and his men set fire to the buildings, and immediately marched from the town on their way back to their vessel, the object of their expedition having been accomplished. Of course a general alarm had been given soon as the enemy appeared at Fairfield, and Brigadier-General Silliman, with about five hundred militia, immediately started in pursuit of the enemy. They were joined at Reading with Major-General Wooster and Brigadier-General Arnold, but the wet condition of the roads prevented the Continentals from reaching the enemy until Tryon was on his way back to his vessel, about eleven o'clock in the forenoon, April 27, when General Wooster and his men held a smart skirmish with the enemy, and Wooster was shot through the groin. General Arnold also came up about the same time with his command and engaged the enemy, and a lively action lasting about an hour occurred. Arnold's horse was shot from under him, but the general, recovering himself, drew his pistol and shot the soldier who was advancing on him with fixed bayonet. The Continentals could do no more than fall back and harass Tryon and his men until they succeeded the next day, April 28th, in reaching their vessel and setting sail for Long Island. Notwithstanding the fact that the Continental troops succeeded in saving some of the stores deposited at Danbury, there was a large quantity destroyed, a careful estimate placing the loss* at 3000 barrels of pork, something over 1000 barrels flour, several hundred barrels beef, 1600 tents, 2000 bushels of grain, besides quantities of rum, wine, rice, army carriages, &c. Nineteen dwellings, a meeting-house, twenty-two stores and barns were burned. The loss of men on the American side was judged to have been about sixty killed and wounded. The British loss was more than double that number; also about twenty prisoners. Thaddeus Crane was captain in the Westchester County militia under Col. Thomas Thomas, receiving his commission in 1775; afterwards second major, 2d Regt., 1775, and lieutenant-colonel Feb. 17, 1780, 4th Regt., Westchester County. He was delegate to the New York State Constitutional Convention in 1788, and voted for adoption of the Constitution. He was delegate to the New York Legislature 1777, 1778, 1779; member of the New York Assembly (Provincial Congress) in 1777-9, 1788, 1789. His sword is retained in the hands of his grandson, Thaddeus Crane of Somers, N. Y. The old Crane homestead is at North Salem, Westchester County, N. Y., where Col. Thaddeus Crane lived, and where his nineteen children were born.

Rev. Ezra F., grandson of Stephen Crane, writes; "My grandmother Crane was one of the grandest women of her age, a perfect heroine in the Revolutionary war. My grandfather was living at Danbury, Conn., when the British burned the town. He and all his men from the shop left for the fort near by, but my grandmother stood her ground, and stood in the door of the house when the British officer rode up, who had his men search the house; finding she was alone, no men near, caused a guard to be placed around the house till the army passed, and thus saved her house." After a time he was released, but crippled with a shattered limb and the loss of sight in one eye. During the war the captain was necessarily absent from home much of the time, but the wife superintended the work on the farm while her boys did the work. In the meantime the son of a neighbor (Doty by name) who had enlisted in the army deserted, which fact so grieved his mother that she went to Mrs. Barnum in her distress of mind, and Mrs. Barnum sent her eldest son, 16 years of age, who served through one campaign as a substitute for the Doty boy. Mr. Crane and his wife joined the church in 1765. March 4, 1770, he sold his home place to his brother-in-law Thomas Kilbey. At the time of the baptism of the two youngest children Mrs. Crane was a widow. His mother Lydia Crane says he died in camp.

The following shows how claims were collected in the 18th century: "Whereas Geo. Olcott recovered judgment against Ruth Crane first Tuesday of Nov., 1789, for £40—18—11 and costs, 0—17—11, and for want of money the officer is ordered to take the body of said Ruth to the Goal and put her in care of the keeper until she pay the full sum above mentioned. The officer levied on land lying in Wethersfield at lower end of Broad Street, with one-half the dwelling-house.

278. CURTIS CRANE⁴ [124]. (John³. Abraham,² Benjamin¹), enlisted Feb. 28, 1778, during the war of the Revolution, as private in Capt. Thos. Wooster's company, Col. Samuel B. Webb's regiment, which was the 3d regiment, and known as Additional Infantry of Connecticut Line, 1777-1781. June 1, 1781, he was promoted to corporal in Capt. Roger Alden's company, same regiment (3d), Additional Infantry of Connecticut Line of 1781-1783. Lt.-Col. Wm. S. Livingston acted as colonel of this regiment while Col. Webb was held as a prisoner, having been captured by the enemy while in command of an expedition against Long Island on Dec. 10, 1777, and confined till Jan. 1, 1781. Col. Webb's regiment after the enlistment of Mr. Crane was, during the summer of 1778, attached to Varnam's brigade, and took part in the battle of Rhode Island, August 29, and was complimented for its conduct at that time. The Regiment remained in Rhode Island until the fall of 1779, when it proceeded to Morristown, N. J., where it passed the winter of 1779-1780, having been assigned to Stark's brigade, Lt.-Col. Ebenezer Huntington being then in command. June 23, 1780, was present at the battle of Springfield, N. J., and during the following summer served with the main army on the Hudson. Col. Webb's regiment was afterwards styled the 9th Regiment Additional Infantry of the Connecticut Line, and passed the winter of 1780 and 1781 with the division at camp "Connecticut Village," above the Robinson House on the Hudson, where it was reorganized Jan. 1, 1781, into the 3d regiment of the Connecticut Line with the 2d and 9th late "Additional Infantry" regiments, formation of 1781-1783. Col. Webb's regiment continued in service until the close of the war, Mr. Crane serving with it nearly five and one-half years, from 1778 to 1783. He received an honorable discharge, but died prior to the passage of the act of congress granting pensions: his widow, however, became a pensioner, beginning with the year 1837, and continued to receive it up to the time of her death.

Mr. Crane married Oct. 6, 1774, Elizabeth Palmer. He died at Eaton, N. Y., Oct. 10, 1828. She died at Milford, N. Y., June 15, 1848. He deeded land in Wethersfield, Conn., to Lieut. Elisha Treat, Oct. 22, 1768, and land in Wethersfield, Conn., to John Robbins of Wethersfield, April 18, 1786; also to Abraham Chamberlin, Nov. 3, 1801, in New Hartford, Litchfield county, Conn. Children:

287. WILLIAM CRANE⁴ [125], (John,³ Abraham,² Benjamin¹). Under date of May 27, 1773, we find the following, showing that he then resided in Wethersfield, Conn.: "We, Thomas Kilbey and wife Hannah, Curtis and William Crane, all of Wethersfield, sold to Capt. Chas. Churchill of Wethersfield a piece of land in Wethersfield, in the Parish of Newington, in tier No. 19, thirteen acres, bounded west on land of John Crane, north on land of said Churchill, south on land of Simon Griffin and Lydia, his wife. All signed this document on the above date." He was private in Capt. John Chester's company, 116 men, who volunteered, in response to the Lexington alarm, from Wethersfield; discharged after six days' service; enlisted May 9th in Capt. John Chester's company (9th), 2d Regt. Vol., Gen. Joseph Spencer; served in and about Boston at time of siege; reported deserted Dec. 1, 1775; private in Capt. Jonathan Wells' company, Hartford, Col. Erastus Wolcott's regiment, state militia; served about Boston, January to March, 1776.

It will be noticed that this William Crane is reported as having deserted; but it appears from records in existence that a number of men entered as deserters about December 1, explained in petitions to the General Assembly of the Colony of Connecticut that they had no intention of deserting, but believing their time had expired on that date instead of December 10. The Assembly ordered them to be paid for full time. This William Crane was among the number. His mother, Lydia Crane, states in a petition at the May session of the Assembly, 1776, that she had three sons in the service in 1775. (They were John, Curtis and this William). "The oldest died in camp, the second returned, and the third, William, who had enlisted in Capt. Chester's company, and fought at Bunker's Hill, left his regiment about November 30th, supposing his time to be out, but, being taken down with fever on the way, wandered in his delirium to Leicester, Mass., and died there."*

A careful examination of the records at Leicester, Mass., failed to disclose the record of the death of this William Crane; and it is quite probable that the good mother was misinformed at that time, and that her son William recovered and re-enlisted, being in service at the time she prepared her petition. The means of getting information from any considerable distance in those days were such that it would not be strange if conflicting reports had reached Wethersfield about these supposed deserters, and that this widowed mother, who had furnished three soldiers for the cause of national freedom, all the sons she had, and one of those then deceased while in the service, was easily led to believe that this the youngest of her sons was dead; but, from the best information at hand, it appears that after the close of the Revolutionary war he settled in Great Barrington, Mass. May 25, 1818, William Crane of that place made his will, in which he mentions his wife Rebecca, and grandchildren Harriet Crain and William Whiting Crain, "children of my late son, William Crain; Albert Lewis Crain, Aurelia Loiza Crain, children of my late son, Whiting Crain, deceased;" and daughter, Sally Crain; his wife Rebecca to be executrix. She presented the will for probate June 4, 1818 Dec. 31, 1829, Sally Crain, the daughter, and then the only child living, petitioned the court to appoint Timothy Turner administrator for her mother (Rebecca Crain's) estate, she then being deceased. The appointment was made, and inventory filed Feb. 9, 1830, the total amount being eighty-eight dollars and a few cents. Rebecca died Dec. 19, 1829. Mr. Crain was a farmer and tailor by trade. He died June 29, 1808, aged 69 years. He united with the church Feb. 5, 1774. He was one of the executors of Joshua Robbins' estate, and Mary Crane was one of the heirs. May 15, 1808, his will was exhibited in court, and Abraham and Benjamin Crane, both of Wethersfield, were named executors. April 26, 1809, an inventory of the estate was filed, amounting to $4,809.57, including 33 sides sole-leather. Abraham and David Crane of Wethersfield and Elijah Crane of Sandisfield, Berkshire County, Mass., brothers, deeded land in Wethersfield, Conn., to Silas Deane of Wethersfield, which belonged to the heirs of Joseph Webb, deceased, March 1, 1769. March 25, 1771, Abraham deeds land to Wm. Loveland. Jan. 26, 1773, David, then of Sandisfield, Mass., deeded to his brother Abraham land in Wethersfield, being one-half of the home lot that belonged to his honored father Abraham Crane, late deceased; it joined land of Jedediah Sanburn, with barn standing partly on said acre, "only reserving the right for my mother during her natural life." June 9, 1777, David Crane of Sandisfield, Mass., deeded land to Abraham that formerly belonged to his brother Benjamin, deceased, adjoining his mother, Rebecca's, land. He willed his tannery to his sons Abraham and Benjamin.

He removed from Wethersfield to Sandisfield, Berkshire County, Mass., prior to March 1, 1769, where he carried on farming, and where he died Aug. 30, 1806. Abiah Bush was appointed guardian of his five youngest children. Dec. 11, 1776, he deeded to his brother Abraham all his right, title and interest in 24 acres lying in parish of Stepney in Wethersfield, lately the property of his brother Benjamin, deceased. He was corporal in Capt. Beardsly's company, 5th regiment, Col. David Waterbury; enlisted May 5th, discharged Oct. 8, 1775; marched to New York, and later served in Northern Department. He deeded land in Wethersfield, situated on the road to Middletown, to Ezekiel Williams, adjoining land of Daniel and Wm. Worner and his mother Rebecca Crane; also to Richard Robbins of Wethersfield land in parish of Stepney, Oct. 15, 1773. It is quite likely that he was the Hezekiah Crane, private in Connecticut militia, who marched under Gen. Gates to the northward in 1777.

334. SILAS CRANE⁵ [144], (Silas,⁴ Jonathan,³ Jonathan,² Benjamin¹), went to Horton, Nova Scotia, with his father about 1760 and drew farm lot 292, containing 245 acres; afterwards resided at Economy. Said to have had a daughter.

335—1. GRACE, m. James Pineo. He was b. Aug. 2, 1777.

336. COL. JONATHAN CRANE⁵ [146], (Silas,⁴ Jonathan,³ Jonathan,² Benjamin¹), went with his father from Lebanon, Conn., where he was born in the year 1750, to Horton, Nova Scotia. Married at Horton, Rebecca Allison, a native of Londonderry, Ireland. He was a magistrate, and also held a colonel's commission in the militia of the Province, and was a member of the Nova Scotia Parliament for the township of Horton for many years. It is related of him that one day coming out of the Government House, John Howe asked him, "What is going on?" "Oh," replied Crane, "'t is all a game of whist, the honors are divided and nothing is to be got except by tricks." He was on duty with his regiment one year, while stationed at Halifax. Col. Crane was the first person elected to represent his township, and continued to be re-elected until his death. He represented Kings County in the Provincial Parliament, and was in his day the most prominent man in that part of Nova Scotia. The house where he lived is the oldest in that part of the county, and was, in 1882, occupied by his grandson William Crane.

Col. Crane was a man of more than ordinary ability, became very popular and was held in high esteem by all who knew him. Many stories are related illustrating his characteristics. Among them the following: "On one occasion, while the Colonel was in charge of protecting the people against attacks from the enemy to King George III., an American privateer ran in shore for the purpose of foraging, when the Colonel hastily collected a number of his townsmen, armed them from the magazine, manned the Parrsboro packet, and put off in hot pursuit after the privateer. With their six-pounder of brass they felt confident they could capture their game. But their valor proved much greater than their discretion, for the well-armed privateer soon induced them to surrender, and putting a prize crew on board the packet she was headed down the basin for Boston, much to the dismay of the crowd of people who had collected on shore to witness the affray. But the Grand Pré men were not slow to improve their opportunities: although the greater portion of them were fastened below as prisoners, several of them were depended upon to assist the prize crew in navigating the packet to Boston. When night came, William Bishop conceived a plan, which, though desperate, promised a chance for freedom. Having arranged matters with his comrades on deck, at a given signal, when there was but one watch on deck, Bishop dealt the steersman a blow with a marline-spike and threw his body into the Lazeretto, while other Grand Pré men were taking care of the victims assigned them, fastening below the remaining privateersmen, and liberating their Grand Pré associates below hatches, thus enabling them soon to regain possession of the packet, which they turned towards the basin, soon arriving home, to the surprise of their friends on shore, and acquiring no small degree of notoriety for themselves."

At another time the Colonel was successful in outwitting John Thomas Hill, sheriff and customs officer. The Colonel imported a cask of good old Jamaica, the flavor of which he believed would be very much injured were the government's blighting stamp placed upon it. But Mr. Hill, with the usual persistency of a customs officer, was determined that nothing should escape his notice, and that the King should have his own. The Colonel knowing full well the alertness with which Mr. Hill executed his official duties, drove with great parade of stealth to Horton Landing, where the schooner lay, with his oxen and cart, loaded a cask and proceeded on his return home, when he was met by Officer Hill, who demanded a surrender. The Colonel submitted with a very bad grace, and the oxen, cart, cask and contents were confiscated in the king's name. The officer's disgust can be better imagined than described, when, upon inspection next morning, he found the cask contained pure water with the smallest snifter of rum.

Colonel Crane had the honor of "dining and wining" his Royal Highness the Duke of Kent, father of the present Queen Victoria, while on a visit to Halifax as commander-in-chief of His Majesty's forces; and the report is handed down that the Colonel's wife, a very estimable lady, who some now living can recall to mind, when informed that the Duke had brought with him a French lady as companion of his joys, that she made it her business to make sundry calls on her neighbors, thereby escaping an introduction to His Royal Highness and Mademoiselle Kazenksky.

He died at Grand Pré, August, 1820. She died there in 1841, aged 89 years.

350. BENJAMIN CRANE⁵ [151], (John,⁴ John,³ Jonathan,² Benjamin¹). Under date of Feb. 6, 1762, there is a "purpose of marriage between Benjamin Crane of Western, Mass., and Sarah Witherbee who has lately dwelt at Western." The entry was made evidently by Simeon Dwight, then Town Clerk of that place, and that is all we have been able to get from the town records. From the office of Register of Deeds at Springfield, Mass., we learn that Benjamin Crain, cooper by trade, of Western, and Sarah his wife, sold land (110 acres) in Shutesbury, April 4, 1764. He also sold land on May 4, 1774, located in Merryfield (now Chester), at which time he was called of Brookfield. Again he sold land Jan. 16, 1777. At this time he is called "cooper of Western." As the family record gives evidence of twenty years residence in this locality it seems strange that not one at least of his children are mentioned in the records of either Western (now Warren) or Brookfield. From the archives at the State House, Boston, we learn that Benjamin Crane of Western was a private in Capt. Ezekiel Knowlton's company, Col. Dyke's Regiment, and served from Dec. 1, 1776, to March 1, 1777; and from Rev. Horace Alonzo Crane, M.A., his great-grandson, we find he married Sarah Witherbee, March 16, 1762. Children:

- 351—1. SARAH, b. Aug. 12, 1762, at Western.
- 352—2. JOHN, b. Oct. 30, 1763, at Western.
- 353—3. AMOS, b. Nov. 22, 1765, at Brookfield.

- 358—8. RUTH, b. Jan. 16, 1776, at Brookfield.
- 359—9. OLIVE, b. April 20, 1780, at Western.

On the town records of Tolland, Conn., we find Amos Crane [353], married Sarah Alling, June 30, 1785, at Abington. We are unable to positively connect this family. Children:

- 1. REPTY, b. Aug. 20, 1786.
- 2. SARAH, b. Aug. 6, 1789.
- 3. LAURA, b. April 9, 1792.

360. JOHN CRANE⁵ [152], (John,⁴ John,³ Jonathan,² Benjamin¹). Dr. John Crane was born in Tolland, Conn. His mother was Rebeckah Huntington. His grandmother on the maternal side was Rebeckah Adgate. This relationship doubtless brought him into association with Eleazer Wheelock, A.M., D.D., son of Deacon Ralph and Ruth (Huntington) Wheelock. This Ruth Huntington's mother having been Sarah Adgate, sister to Dr. Crane's grandmother. Mr. Wheelock was a graduate of Yale College in 1733, was ordained pastor of the Second Congregational Church, Lebanon, Conn., in March, 1735. He was very successful as a preacher and pastor. In addition to his ministerial charge he was greatly interested in the education of young men, especially the youth of the Indian nations. After having taken into his family several of the latter for the purpose of educating and training them to serve as missionaries among their own people, he conceived the idea of establishing and conducting a missionary school, where Indian boys might be fitted to perform missionary work; and a house and two acres of land adjoining his own home place was given him in the year 1754 by Joshua Moore of Mansfield for the purpose, and the school established. After conducting "Moore's School," as it was then called, for several years, Mr. Wheelock thought the advantages might be greatly increased by changing its location and merging it into a college. Accordingly he obtained a charter from John Wentworth, then Governor of New Hampshire, and set out on a tour of inspection for the purpose of selecting a site on which to locate his college. Dr. John Crane is said to have accompanied Mr. Wheelock on this trip, and assisted in selecting Hanover, N. H., as the location. Dr. Crane removed from Connecticut with Rev. Eleazer Wheelock to Hanover in August, 1770, and in 1773 built one of the first houses erected there. It stood on Main Street, first house south of Dartmouth Hotel. The house with several others was consumed by fire in December, 1886. The lot, about an acre of land, on which Dr. Crane built his house was presented to him by the College to encourage him to locate here. He was the first resident physician and apothecary in the place, and acquired considerable reputation as such. In 1776 he joined the army as surgeon and served until Dec. 31, 1783, serving in Col. Vose's 1st and Col. Smith's 13th Regiments,—Continental Army pay accounts for service from Oct. 24, 1777, to Dec. 31, 1779; also service from Jan. 1, 1780, to Dec. 31, 1780; also Lieut. Calvin Smith's 6th Regiment, wages allowed from January, 1781, to December, 1782, 24 months. He was at the battle of Saratoga, and in winter quarters at Valley Forge. He was a member of the Massachusetts Society of the Cincinnati, and was succeeded in 1809 by his son, John Huntington Crane. Dr. Crane attended President Wheelock in his last sickness, when he died April 24, 1779. Oct. 15, 1784, he signed a petition for a road from Boscawen on Merrimack River to the Connecticut River. Dr. Crane married Hannah Brown, and died in February, 1786. His widow married Col. Aaron Kinsman also a Revolutionary soldier. She died in 1817.

361. ELIJAH CRANE⁵ [154], (John,⁴ John,³ Jonathan,² Benjamin¹), married Sarah Hill. She was a native of Woburn, Mass. Mr. Crane was one of the first ten settlers of the town of Washington, Mass., going there in 1760,—from 1762 until 1777 the place was called Hartwood,—and with the exception of two years spent his life there. Jan. 30, 1772, he was appointed to settle his brother Amos Crane's estate of Tolland, Conn., and gave £200 bond to the court for faithful performance of the trust. Elijah was then called of Hartwood, Mass. Amos is said to have been killed by the Indians. Shortly before his death he removed to Madrid, N. Y., at which place he died Jan. 15, 1818. His widow died in Canton, St. Lawrence County, N. Y., Sept. 11, 1819, aged 70 years. Children:

Saml. Williams' Regiment, Dec. 17, 1776, discharged March 20, 1777. Marched to the northward, probably in Major Clap's Regiment. He again served in Capt. Porter's company, Col. Rositer's Regiment. From July 1 to Dec. 31, 1779, he served as private in Major's company, Col. Ebenezer Sprout's Regiment, Continental army, for the town of Becket. He was a powerfully built man, "six feet two or three inches tall, dark complexion, black hair, about thirty years of age." This we learn from the description list of men who served in Continental army. A visit to the office of Registrar of Probate at Pittsfield, Mass., disclosed the fact that May 31, 1817, on petition of the widow Elizabeth Crane, George Conant, Esq., was appointed by the court to settle the estate of Abel Crane of Becket. Some of the children were minors, and Timothy Snow was appointed guardian for Edward and Saloma. The estate was settled Sept. 7, 1819, and after the payment of all debts, the widow was given her portion, and the balance remaining, thirty-three dollars and fifty-four cents, was equally divided between the children, each receiving the sum of four dollars and seventy-nine cents. Children :

Whether this Abel was father to Abel, John and Orange Crain, the records at Pittsfield do not show. But Mr. Orange Crane of Fillmore, Minn., stated in 1881 that he was a son of Abel Crain of Massachusetts, and that he was a descendant of this Benjamin Crane. That he had brothers Abel and John, and one son Ozias then living in Colorado.

517. JOHN CRANE⁵ [202], (Zebulon,⁴ Joseph,³ Jonathan,² Benjamin¹), married March 1, 1764, Tamar, daughter of John and Hannah Carpenter of New Castle, Westchester County. She was born Dec. 1, 1747. Rev. Eliphalet Ball, the first settled minister of Ballston, N. Y., performed the marriage ceremony. Served in Revolutionary war in 3d company, New York Line, private from March 2 to July 15, 1777; was Captain of 4th company, 7th Regiment (Luddington's Regiment), elected March 12, 1776. He was Judge for Dutchess County, N. Y. Chosen Town Clerk of Carmel at first town meeting, April 7, 1795 (held at his house); also Commissioner of Highways. She died at Carmel, N. Y., Jan. 1, 1823. He died at same place June 9, 1827.

“My grandfather was living at the commencement of the Revolutionary war that separated the then thirteen colonies from the government of Great Britain. At the commencement of that war, the people were divided into two classes,—Whigs and Tories. The Whig party were those who were opposed to the black arts of the British Parliament; and the Tories took sides with the king. My grandfather was then about eighty years old, very strong and active for a man of that age, and a warm Whig; and, what is very remarkable, his eight children were all living, and heads of families. He had many grandchildren and great-grandchildren, and not an individual, who had arrived at the years of understanding, failed to take an active part in the American cause. I was the eldest grandchild, and had an ensign's commission under King George III, in the year 1775. I took a captain's commission under the Provincial Congress of the Province of New York, and on the fourth of July following, our Independence was declared, Clinton became our Governor, then I received a commission from him, and held it through the war. Such was the general conduct of the family, which was the cause of many of them receiving both Civil and Military commissions; not on account of our extraordinary abilities, but as recognition of our engagedness in that blessed cause. I hope whoever reads the foregoing will erase the incorrectness as I want but six days of being eighty-three years of age and am almost blind."

(Signed) "JOHN CRANE."

Judge John Crane, or Capt. John as he is frequently spoken of, was the eldest of twelve children of Zebulon and Sarah Bel-den Crane. On March 1, 1764, he married Tamar, daughter of John and Hannah Carpenter of New Castle, Westchester Co., N. Y. Five years later, with his wife and two small children, he came from New Castle to a farm of 250 acres, situated near Lake Mahopac, where, in 1772, he built the first frame house which was erected in this part of the country. His house was a public inn, where the business of the town was transacted, and town meetings were held. He held the office of justice of the peace, and was associate judge of the court of common pleas in Dutchess County, before the county was divided, and also of Putnam County after it was established. The military commissions are mentioned in his "Fragment of Family History." The commission he received from Clinton is now in the possession of Benj. T. Crane, his youngest grandson, who owns and occupies the old homestead near Mahopac.

During the Revolution, Gen. Charles Scott, with his staff, made his headquarters for a time at John Crane's inn. The troops in going to and from the headquarters at Salem, Westchester Co., and West Point, on the Hudson, passed that way, and often tarried over night there. Conspicuous among them was "Capt. Poll," a young Irish woman.

Beside being an unflinching patriot and noted for his integrity and superior business capacity in the management of public affairs, in his private life Judge Crane was a person of great benevolence and kindly feeling; a firm friend and an indulgent parent. He was medium-sized, well-proportioned, with mild blue eyes and a dignity of manner which commanded the respect of all with whom he came in contact.

In a letter written by a grand-nephew of his, Dr. Geo. B. Crane of St. Helena, Cal., who died recently at the advanced age of more than ninety years, he said: "Judge Crane came to our house, dressed as usual; silk stockings, and breeches, buckled above his knees, and ending there; silver shoe-buckles, and a large brimmed fine fur hat. He was a gentleman of the old school, and such fashions went out with the old men of his time."

Judge Crane and his family were all active church workers, going on horseback, from their home near Mahopac to the old log church, near "Tilly Foster Mines," to attend service, and later, aiding in the erection and support of the Gilead Presbyterian Church at Carmel. Nor did the good work die with him; he left children and grandchildren of unusual attainments, of sterling worth, and high personal character. His sons Joseph and John were very influential men in the Gilead Church, and his grandson Azor B. Crane was during his whole life one of the most prominent citizens of Putnam County. In 1843, he was appointed judge of the court of common pleas, and was the first county judge and surrogate elected under the new constitution of 1847. Children:

Y., by whom he had six children; married second Mrs. Elizabeth (Wood) Townsend. He was a soldier in the Revolutionary war. The following story is told of him: "After a skirmish with the Indians, the next day he with a few picked men were scouting and came upon a lone Indian two miles from camp. They took him prisoner, disarmed him, and Crane was left to guard him; but he let the Indian get behind him, when the Indian clinched Crane by the hair and tried to cut his throat with a knife he had concealed about his person. Crane took the knife away from the Indian, and when the latter started to run away, Crane shot the Indian with his own gun. He returned to camp nearly dead from loss of blood, having received a severe gash across his forehead and temples and his hand half cut off in getting away the knife." His son Elijah gave this account in 1871, being then an old man. He died Dec. 31, 1814. Children:

About 1796 he removed to Skeenesborough, now Whitehall, N. Y., where, about two years later, his wife died. He m. 2d, Aug. 21, 1831, widow Eliza Tobey, dau. of Hon. Daniel and Elizabeth (Gilliland) Ross, of Essex. She perished at the burning of the steamer Empire, on her passage from New York to Albany, May 17, 1849. She was the widow of Capt. Charles Edward Tobey, 21st Infantry, U. S. A. He was in the war of 1812. Mr. Noble removed from New Milford, Conn., Dec. 22, 1799, and drove to Essex (then Willsborough), Essex County, N. Y., arriving Jan. 3, 1800, and opened a store on a limited scale. But soon became actively engaged in the tanning of leather, and subsequently in the manufacture of lumber and later of iron, and through his skill and energy accumulated a handsome property. As a member of the State militia and a commissioned officer he was several times mustered into the United States service, and took part in the war of 1812 and was present at the battle of Plattsburgh, serving as 2d Major of the 8th Regiment Detached Militia, 1812; Major Commandant, 37th Regiment, 1813; Lt.-Col. Commandant, same Regiment, 40th Brigade of Infantry (Gen. Daniel Wright), Clinton and Essex Counties, N. Y. Militia, 3d Division, Maj.-Gen. Benjamin Mooers. While serving with the 8th Regiment he was stationed, a portion of the time during the year 1812, both at Chateaugay and St. Regis, on the Canadian frontier. He commanded the Militia in an encounter with the British, when they were repulsed, May 13, 1814, at the mouth of the Boquet River. March 22, 1816, he was commissioned Brigadier-General and served until 1821, when he resigned. The business capacity displayed by Gen. Noble was quite remarkable. Coming out from New Milford, Conn., into a new and unreclaimed country, with but the trade of a shoemaker upon which to rely for the support of his family, and with no powerful connections, such as favored many of the early settlers of Essex County, the outlook at first seemed anything but comforting. But with the keen perception of a skilful tradesman he saw about him priceless forests of timber, valuable mines of iron, nature's storehouse of wealth, if he could but unlock it with the keys of skill and personal unremitting industry. This he proceeded to do, and through the means of the little store, he moved on step by step, enlarging, as he went, until at one time he could count a half-score of sawmills located on various streams, cutting large quantities of lumber, which he brought to Essex to be shipped to the different markets. This industry, together with his tannery and iron business, thrived and prospered under his management, showing a business capacity of rare quality; and what brought as much satisfaction to his family as all else, and made the home more fascinating and enjoyable, was the fact that he who had been so bountifully rewarded for his wise judgment and faithful application to business, was allowed to live to an advanced age, and thereby enjoy the fruits of his labors, and see his sons all honorable and thorough-going business men, well established on the way to success, in following the footsteps of their father. Gen. Noble died at the home of his son Harmon, in Essex, June 5, 1863. His name will ever remain conspicuous among the annals of the Champlain Valley. He was always interested in public matters, although he had little time to give to political life; yet no worthy cause escaped his notice, and he was always ready to assist in furthering any good work. He was supervisor of the town of Essex 1825-1826. He was a liberal subscriber toward the erection of both the Congregational and Presbyterian church edifices in Essex, and subsequently united with the latter church. Gen. Noble was a master Mason and a member of Essex Lodge, No. 152, F. & A. M., and his first sign-board, now in the possession of his grandson Henry Harmon Noble, bears the square and compass, emblems of the Masonic fraternity. He was a Royal Arch Mason, having been exalted March 28, 1811, in Jerusalem Chapter, No. 2, R. A. M., Vergennes, Vt. In politics he was a Federalist, later a Whig, and eventually a Republican, and a staunch supporter of the Union during the war, as were his sons. With a reputation for business honor and integrity, which extended throughout the State, he was fittingly described as the "foremost business man of Northern New York." Children by first wife:

In 1834 he removed to New York City and engaged in the iron trade under the firm name of Smith & Noble, commission merchants, at No. 76 Broad Street. 557. Major HARMON NOBLE [2]; m. Oct. 16, 1855, Laura A., dau. of Peter and Martha (Frazier) Welch, b. in Vergennes, Vt., Aug. 31, 1823, where her grandfather Paul Welch, with Abigail Crane, his wife, settled in 1808. It was the purpose of Gen. Ransom Noble to give each of his children a thorough English and business education; and from the easy manner in which he managed enterprises of considerable magnitude, we may reasonably infer that he did not fail in this undertaking. After Harmon had returned from seeking his education at Lansingburgh (N. Y.) Academy, preparatory to assuming a business life, he was placed in charge of the store and office at Essex, with the books of the firm his father had established, and which, at this time, was conducting a very large business. The young man at once developed an unusual capacity for his responsible position, and the prosperity of the firm assumed yet larger proportions than it had previously known. The lumbering interest, as well as the tannery and iron industries, were conspicuously enlarged under his careful and wise guidance, while the financial success of the business was of a most flattering nature. Mr. Noble was one of those useful persons who could turn his hands to almost any kind of an enterprise, and through skill, integrity and close application make a success of it. Whatever he undertook was carried out with unflinching persistence, while all his dealings were conducted on principles of thorough honesty and justice. Like his father, he never sought office of any kind, outside the State Militia. But in that department he was prominent. Governor DeWitt Clinton granting him a commission as Major, March 9, 1825, with rank from Dec. 11, 1824, and serving from time to time on the staff of Gen. H. H. Ross. The death of Mr. Noble caused a severe shock among those who enjoyed the pleasure of his acquaintance, for he was stricken down, amid the scenes of active business life. Returning home from his office on the evening of May 23, 1864, after reading his paper he retired for the night. A few moments later he uttered his last words to his heart-broken wife. The breaking of an abscess in the lungs caused his death, which occurred early in the morning of May 24. We quote the following from a sketch of Mr. Noble written at the time of his death by a person who knew him well:
- "During his long intercourse with his fellow citizens as merchant no man ever had cause to doubt his honor and probity. But his worth did not arise merely from his capacity as a man of business. His kindly disposition, his support of the church, his tenderness and kindness as a son, parent, husband, relative and friend endeared him to all his relatives, and won the esteem of his acquaintances. His loss will be deeply felt in the extensive concerns in which he was engaged, and by the community generally, and the bereavement falls heavily upon his relatives, and doubly so on the beloved wife and young children." Y., on account of failing health; but, continuing the study of law, was admitted to the bar of Colorado in the summer of 1881 at Denver, where he completed his studies in the office of Symes & Foote. In April, 1882, he was admitted to practice in the Supreme Court of that State. After passing the summer of 1882 in Essex, N. Y., Mr. and Mrs. Ross returned to Denver, Col., where he engaged in practice with his father, James B. Ross, under the firm name of Ross & Ross, still hoping for health to come with the change of climate. Paul Welch, Esquire, as he was styled, was one of the leading men in New Milford, Deputy, Justice of the Peace, Lieutenant in the Militia, and it is stated of him in Orcutt's "History of New Milford" that "probably there was not another man of so much influence in the town when Rev. Nathaniel Taylor was settled here as pastor." His epitaph says:

"In memory of Paul Welch, Esqre., one of the first principal settlers of the town, and an original proprietor of the same. Departed this life, August 26, 1778, in the 82d year of his age.

"In his day he served the town in most offices of trust and honor, gave good satisfaction, and died possessed of a large estate."

Y., when a young child with her parents. The beginning of the Revolutionary war found Mr. Crane ensign in a company of minute-men, and he continued in service throughout the period of seven years. March 1, 1776, he was ensign in 5th South East company, Capt. Joshua Barnum, Jr., Col. Jacobus Swartwout, 2d regiment. He was at the battle of Ridgefield, April, 1777; also the engagement at Ward's House, near White Plains. Mr. Crane was frequently employed in carrying messages to General Washington while located at the Highlands. His widow received a pension. He was a farmer, and spent his life on the farm he purchased from the State, it having been confiscated as the property of a tory. It was located in the southerly portion of the town of South East, and known as "Crane's Ridge," about three miles southeast from Brewster. He died Aug. 27, 1834. She died May 14, 1839. Children:

587. JOSEPH CRANE⁵ [216], (Joseph,⁴ Joseph,³ Jonathan,² Benjamin¹), was a physician, judge and captain. He was surgeon 3d regiment. Dutchess County, N. Y., active service* May 31 to June 11, 1779, June 26 to June 30, 1780, latter time on staff of Col. John Field's regiment, Dutchess County Militia. In the proceedings of Provincial Congress we find that Sept. 17, 1776, ordered that Messrs. Duane, Duer, Schenck and Doctor Crane be a committee to inquire into the situation of the Light Horsemen and Lieut. Onderdonk and report thereon. A portion of the time he was stationed on Long Island, where he married Rosanna Cock, Aug. 6, 1775. She was born 1756. He married 2d, Feb. 14, 1798, Aner Leggitt, daughter of Capt. Hackaliah Brown of Somers, Winchester County, N. Y., and settled at South East. He was Judge of the Court of Common Pleas for Dutchess and Putnam Counties. He inherited his father's library, the family records and coat of arms. He died Nov. 21, 1825.

Dr. Joseph Crane, Jr., was Assistant Surgeon militia and additional officer in New York troops. He was Surgeon in 3d regt. of Dutchess County, which was in active service May 31 to June 17, 1779, and June 26 to June 30, 1780, his brother Solomon being Adjutant of this regiment at the same time, it having been called out on a general alarm to repel the enemy. He was a member of the Provincial Congress of the Province of New York in 1776, and member of the Assembly 1778, 1779 and 1796. His home was about two miles east of Brewster, it being the place now (1898) owned by Mr. George Sears. There has been more or less confusion in reports from various members of the family as to honors enjoyed by Joseph Crane, and it has been no light task to know just where to place them. It must be remembered that there were three Joseph Cranes, father, son and grandson. No doubt all three performed well their part during the trials connected with the stand for national independence. Joseph, senior, died Aug. 20, 1781; so it is fair to presume that his son and grandson were most active during the war. They were both doctors, which perhaps adds to the confusion. It would seem that possibly the eldest Dr. Joseph Crane would have been the one chosen to attend the Provincial Congress, he being then fifty-four years of age, while his son Dr. Crane, Jr., was but twenty-seven. But as descendants of the family place this honor to the young Doctor, there may be no good reason for changing it.

1599. Commodore HOMER CRANE BLAKE [5], was born in Dutchess County, N. Y. When about a year old his parents removed to Ohio, and settled on what was called the Western Reserve, where Homer passed his boyhood days. At the age of eighteen he entered the United States Navy as a midshipman. Date of the appointment being March 2, 1840. He was soon assigned to duty on board the Constellation frigate, which set sail for a voyage lasting over three years, and encircling the globe. During this trip, while the Constellation was anchored off Canton, China, Blake was assigned the hazardous task of maintaining communication between the vessel and Canton, which he successfully accomplished in an open boat with but twelve men, at a time, too, when in China an Englishman's head was worth one thousand dollars, and it was not an easy matter to distinguish between the head of an American and an Englishman. After reaching home in 1844 and spending a short furlough visiting relatives and friends, he was ordered to join the sloop-of-war Preble and served a year on the coast of Africa suppressing the slave trade. Returning to the United States he entered the Naval Academy, at Annapolis. From here he graduated in 1846 as passed midshipman. As war with Mexico seemed inevitable, Blake applied for active service and was attached to his old vessel, the sloop-of-war Preble, and sent to the coast of California. In 1848 the Preble was ordered to the East Indies. On reaching Canton, China, Blake was so ill as to be unfit for duty, and permitted to return home for the purpose of recovering his health. For a short period he was engaged on shore in the coast survey. In 1850, he again appears bound for the Pacific on board the frigate Raritan, but was transferred from this vessel to the sloop-of-war St. Mary's and proceeded to the China Seas and home by the Cape of Good Hope, thus making in about nine years three voyages around the world. In 1856, he again joined the Raritan frigate and repaired to the coast of Brazil. Returning to the United States in 1857, he was employed for a time on shore, and again sent to the coast of Africa to return the following year. With the breaking out of our Civil War, Blake applied for active duty, for the purpose of defending the flag that had been his protection in almost every prominent harbor of the world. He was ordered to the Sabine and employed on the coast of South Carolina, but when this vessel was assigned to recruiting duty he asked to be detached from her and given a place nearer the post of danger. He was then assigned to command the R. R. Cuyler; soon, however, transferred to the command of the Hatteras. She was originally built as a passenger boat to run between New Orleans and Galveston, but suddenly transformed into a substitute man-of-war by the help of a few pine plank to strengthen her decks, that they might support the few small guns she was chosen to carry, and removing her after cabin. Thus equipped she was of suitable strength to perform ordinary blockading duty, to which service she was assigned off Galveston, Texas, Commander Blake having been sent there from New Orleans with the Hatteras and a few other vessels to attempt the retaking of that place, arriving Jan. 10, 1863.

About 3 P. M. the following day a strange vessel appeared off the port. Supposing it to be a blockade-runner the Hatteras was signaled to give chase, and Commander Blake was soon in pursuit. The stranger proved to be no less than the Confederate steamer Alabama, Capt. Semmes in command. The Hatteras was no even match for the Alabama, not being able to hurl in a single broadside one-quarter the weight in metal that the latter could, and Blake found himself in a position where he must either attempt to run away or fight. He chose the latter, and gave the order to clear the Hatteras for action, resolving at the same moment to bring the vessels into close quarter, if possible, and attempt to carry his foe by boarding. As the Hatteras steamed on for the encounter, the Alabama was lying to, broadside on, waiting for the struggle soon to come. With the discharge of a broadside from the Alabama the battle was begun. Every nerve on both vessels was strained to the utmost tension. The superior speed of the Alabama enabled Semmes to thwart all attempts made for boarding by Commodore Blake, although the vessels were within thirty yards of each other. For twenty minutes the frail Hatteras was exposed to the tremendous pounding of shot and shell, the latter starting a fire, which was raging fiercely and rapidly working towards the magazine, which was composed above the water line of light pine plank. The men at the magazine remained at their post as long as powder could be passed up without exploding. The flames had reached the two-inch plank partition separating it from the magazine and the vessel was fast sinking, but not a man flinched nor left his gun. The Hatteras was so torn and disabled that not one of her guns could now be brought to bear on the Alabama, and Blake feeling he had no right to sacrifice uselessly the brave men under his command, reluctantly gave orders to fire a lee-gun in token of surrender. With the aid of the boats from both vessels the men of the Hatteras were soon placed on board the Alabama, and within ten minutes the Hatteras went to the bottom of the ocean with her pennant still flying at the masthead, Semmes gaining a fruitless victory. The Alabama was severely damaged by the encounter and at once proceeded to Kingston, in Jamaica, where she remained thirteen days for repairs, which cost eighty-six thousand dollars in gold. Commander Blake and his crew in due time reached New York via Key West. These men, who fought under Blake, held him in such high esteem that they petitioned the Navy Department to give their commander the steamer Eutaw, and that they might be allowed to join him in a cruise for the Alabama, believing they could either sink or capture that formidable enemy. The Eutaw was given Blake, but he was stationed at the James River, where he rendered valuable service. In the latter part of 1863 a desperate movement was announced soon to take place on the side of the Confederates. Jan. 24, 1864, the attempt was made, and had not the two rebel rams got aground the result might have been much more disastrous, for the Union Naval Commander instead of protecting his defences from the attack of the Confederate fleet under command of Semmes, who had been working down the James River, retired and thus allowed the channel to be opened. The night following, at high water, the second attempt was to be made. Commander Blake had been stationed on the east side, at Deep Bottom, to protect the right of the Army of the James. On the morning of the twenty-fifth, the commander of the naval division having been removed for his conduct the previous day, Blake was placed in command of the ironclad fleet, torpedo and picket boats. On going on board the Onondaga he found her port propeller disabled; yet, with her in this condition and only a few small gunboats, he was able to contend with the Confederate fleet and caused it to retreat back to Richmond. A false step or a moment's hesitation at that time would have endangered the safety of the Union armies. Against the advice of nearly all the officers, he got the Onondaga, with the assistance of tugs, close to the obstructions, and directly under the fire of the Confederate batteries, and in such a position that if she was sunk, either by the rams or torpedo boats, as he expected, she would take the place of the removed obstructions. This action prevented a second attempt, as he was afterward informed by one of the officers who was then attached to the Confederate fleet. Admiral Porter wrote Blake, "Had your predecessor done as well, we should now be in possession of the entire rebel navy and on our way to Richmond."

Blake was continued in command of the ironclads and naval picket line, and took part in the engagement which caused the fall of Richmond. In 1867 he was head of the Bureau of Navigation, at Portsmouth, N. H. But the order soon came to proceed again to the Chinese waters. This time under the fighting Admiral John Rogers. Capt. Blake was sent up the Han River, in Korea, in command of an expedition to punish the Koreans for a treacherous attack upon an American force sent to inquire into the loss of the crew of the schooner General Sherman in August, 1866, and to arrange for a treaty between the United States and Korea. Although this sudden attack was planned by the Koreans with the intention of annihilating the Americans, it resulted in comparatively little damage. Admiral Rogers gave them ten days in which to make an apology. None came, and the expedition, with 759 men in all, under Capt. Blake, was dispatched to punish the treacherous Koreans. June 10, 1868, the men landed and with the help of the gunboats Monocacy and Colorado captured the first fort. The following day the men proceeded on up the heights capturing the second line of fortifications. But the third and main fortification, located on a high rocky hill, garrisoned by a vastly superior force in numbers, was yet to be taken. It was a severe and hazardous undertaking. Many of the Americans were overcome with heat. But the word was given, and up our men climbed the steep hill in the face of deadly missiles, and made a desperate hand-to-hand encounter, with this result: about 350 Koreans were killed and 20 taken prisoners. The Americans had three men killed and ten wounded. Five forts, with fifty flags, and a considerable number of large and small guns were captured during the two days.

His extended service along the coast of China and exposure to the malaria of that region completely shattered his constitution, and for some years after his return home he suffered severely in bodily health. He died at his home in New York City, Jan. 27, 1880, at the age of 58 years, just after receiving his well-earned commission as Commodore in the United States Navy. He was a warm-hearted, courteous, considerate, Christian gentleman. When he was on his way to Galveston, Texas, just prior to the engagement with the Alabama, in a private letter, written to a friend, he said: "I have much to live for, but I could not be happy to purchase my life with any neglect of the duty I owe to my country. I shall not seek danger; but if it comes I shall take it in the line of my duty, and endeavor to do credit to myself, family and State." Several officers of the United States Navy, who have rendered signal service to their country during the late war with Spain, served under Blake in that memorable Korean expedition. Among them, Commodores J. C. Watson, W. S. Schley, Rear-Admiral L. A. Kimberly, Captain C. M. Chester, and Commander Albion V. Wadhams, all of whom speak in the highest terms that he was an officer of great ability, ceaseless energy, indomitable courage and an excellent seaman.

He married Mary, daughter of Judge James Flanagan.

- 9. THERON D. (Kelly), b. Aug. 7, 1848.

1767. JOEL S. CRANE⁷ [871], (Joel,⁶ Elijah,⁵ John,⁴ John,³ Jonathan,² Benjamin¹). In the year 1826, when but seventeen years of age, he removed to the State of New York, where he married Dec. 30, 1833, Polly McCabe, and settled in the town of Lysander, Onondaga County. He was a farmer, and with the exception of three years his subsequent life was passed on the farm where he first located. He died March 20, 1868, after a long illness. Children:

- 1768—1. ALFRED E., b. April 21, 1835.
- 1769—2. LUCY A., b. May 1, 1840; m. Charles E. Crane.

“Our deceased brother, Mr. Joel S. Crane, in 1832, experienced religion, we believe, under the ministration of Father Young, of blessed memory, and soon after joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, in which communion he remained until his death. He held the office of Class Leader from the period of his first introduction into the Church until his infirmities prevented him from farther engaging in the active duties of the position. He also acted as Superintendent of the Sabbath School for a great portion of the time; and all that appertained to his official position was always well and faithfully done. In all the relations of life, Mr. Crane was ever respected and esteemed. As a neighbor he was kind and obliging; as a friend true as the needle to the pole; as a citizen loyal and patriotic. But it was in his own family and in the Church of Christ where his many excellent qualities shone forth most conspicuously. To the loving, devoted husband and the watchful and affectionate father, he joined the character of the humble, self-denying, earnest, working Christian. To toil in the vineyard of his Master was to him a labor of love. In this regard he seemed to count all else but loss so that 'he might attain unto the excellency of the knowledge which is in Christ Jesus our Lord.' Brother Crane not only adorned his profession in the way we have just indicated, but he was likewise equally ready to contribute of his money, generously too, to support the good cause he loved so well. His house was always open, and no man ever came to it hungry, but that he fed him; thirsty, but that he gave him drink; naked, and he clothed him; sick, and he ministered unto him. Thus in his charities he seemed to be actuated by the principle, that 'inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, my brethren, ye have done it unto me.' Mr. Crane, too, was a man of more than ordinary intellect, well posted on all the prominent topics of the day, and his opinions in relation to them were always characterized with intelligence and good sense. He was likewise one of the most genial and pleasant companions with whom to converse that can be found in any community, and this particular element in his constitutional make-up caused his society to be eagerly sought both by young and old. Mr. Crane was also a very successful farmer and left a fine estate to be inherited by his widow and children. One other thing we must not forget to mention, and that is the fortitude, resignation and cheerfulness, which he exhibited all through his protracted and painful illness. No words of complaint or murmuring ever escaped him. In fact, he would not unfrequently raise the spirits of his own family and friends by perpetrating some little pleasantry, or by throwing into the conversation a spicy remark, which would serve to drive away all gloom and melancholy. Indeed, it is our opinion that this cheerfulness and the stir and ambition with which he was naturally endowed, added months if not years to his life."

2070. FRANKLIN LOOMIS CRANE⁷ [1130], David,⁶ David,⁵ Hezekiah,⁴ John,³ Jonathan,² Benjamin¹), married Oct. 16, 1838, at Easton, Pa., Mary Elizabeth Howell. She was born there Sept. 18, 1820, and there they established their home. She died May 20, 1845. He was born at East Windsor, Hartford County, Conn., on an old manor that had been handed down from father to son for generations before the Revolution. In that dark and desperate struggle his grandfather, David Crane, did good service under the immediate command of Gen. Washington.

The home training of young Crane was in the strict Puritan style. His school days did not differ materially from those of other boys similarly situated; attended the common school, where he paid his own way. Receiving a certificate of qualification to teach the common English branches, he soon began teaching in Vernon, Conn.; in a short time however he accepted an invitation from his uncle, Dr. John W. Crane, a practicing physician of Hartford, to commence the study of medicine and dental surgery in his office. After thoroughly preparing himself, he opened an office in Easton, Pa., where he conducted a successful business for 22 years.

In October, 1854, he emigrated to Kansas, and settled on the present site of Topeka. As a member of the town company he took an active part in everything that pertained to the upbuilding of the city. Town lots were donated to all who would erect houses and live on the town site, and also to churches and societies of all kinds that were ready to take advantage of the generous offer. Dr. Crane was appointed to the difficult task of making selections for incomers, societies and churches. Many persons are still living in Topeka who remember with what zeal he pointed out the advantages of this or that particular locality. His language on such occasions proved prophetic in many instances.

He was active in the formation of the Kansas Free State party. In 1857 the St. Joseph & Topeka Railroad Company was organized, and he was chosen treasurer. Little actual work was ever done on this route, although he expended much time and money in making it a living institution by securing the payment of 10 per cent. of capital stock. This planning and managing finally resulted in the construction of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fé Railroad.

In 1859, there being no permanent place in Topeka for the interment of the dead, and having failed in several efforts to organize a cemetery company, Dr. Crane made the venture at his own expense, and laid out, in a very tasty and artistic manner, a large plot of ground about a mile east of the city. For this act of generosity, if for nothing else, he will ever be remembered kindly by the citizens of Topeka. In the same year he became mayor of the city, on the death of the mayor-elect, by virtue of his office of president of the city council. This was just at the time when the permanent location of the State capital by a direct vote of the people was being agitated. Mainly through the wish and prompt action of the acting mayor and city council Topeka was made the permanent seat of government at that election. The first bridge over the Kansas River was built in 1857-8, largely through his influence and exertions. This bridge was swept away by a freshet July 19, 1858, and was replaced by a temporary pontoon, that served the purpose until the present iron structure was erected by Mortimer Cook, Dr. Crane and others.

On the breaking out of the rebellion he and two of his sons enlisted for the war. His knowledge of medicine, kindness of heart and generosity peculiarly fitted him to take care of the sick, and he was made a hospital steward, and on several occasions established and conducted general hospitals by order of the medical directory. This branch of service was in accord with his sympathetic nature, and he was enabled to make it a perfect success.

On his return from the camp he was chosen president of the board of education. Under his administration several large school-houses were erected, among them the Lincoln School building. He has ever been liberal and foremost in advocating the interests of education, assisting all societies and efforts in every move to harmonize and liberalize society. From the rigid church discipline under which he was reared he gradually became more liberal in his views, until he found himself a willing and confirmed disciple of ancient and modern Spiritualism, and in all his relations with his fellows he carried into his daily practice the firm belief that there is ever by his side an immortal spirit that is cognizant of his every act, whether good or evil; one that mourns over his wrong doings and rejoices in every good deed, and under certain conditions is able, as in the old biblical times, to make its presence manifest by words and signs, and to give admonition of coming events.* He died Nov. 21, 1884, at the home of his eldest son in Carthage, New Mexico, whither he had gone for a visit. Funeral services were at Topeka, Kan. Children:

CARSO CRANE^s married Electa L. Glidden. He served in the late war. Enlisted as a private from Jones County, Iowa, in July, 1861, elected 2d Lieutenant, ordered into camp at Dubuque, and mustered into the United States service Sept. 2, in Co. D, 9th Regt. Iowa Infantry. Then proceeded via. St. Louis, Mo., to Pacific City, and with Gen. Curtis in command, the army of the South West started after the enemy under General Price, came up with the rear of the enemy before reaching Springfield, but could not bring on an engagement until Price had formed a junction with Van Dorn, when with a force of 35,000 they turned upon Curtis with his 10,000 men. In a skirmish at Nubben Ridge the casualties were light, but at Pea Ridge, where they fought March 6 and 7, 1861, the company of which he was then in command went into the engagement with 55 men, had 2 killed, 2 taken prisoners, and 29 wounded. Company C, having lost its officers, was attached to Mr. Crane's company on the afternoon of the 6th, and continued there throughout that action. Afterwards they marched through Arkansas to Helena, in August; remained there until December; made an attack on Chickasaw Bayou and were repulsed; returned to Arkansas and captured Arkansas Post; returned to Vicksburg and worked in the famous cut-off canal. Here Mr. Crane became prostrated by the effects of a sunstroke in connection with chronic diarrhœa and resigned in March, 1863, on a surgeon's certificate. He was made 1st Lieutenant in September, 1862, and Captain in February, 1863. While in camp at Helena, he served several months on the staff of Gen. Vandevors. Now (1899) resides in Anamosa, Iowa. "Dr. George Belden Crane was born July 31, 1806, in the State of New York, Dutchess County, now Putnam, and died Monday, May 9, 1898. His first school-days were spent in a little shanty near his father's sawmill on the Croton river. Like other boys in those days, he worked on the farm in the summer and went to school in the winter. When sixteen years old he secured a certificate and commenced teaching school, receiving therefor about $12 per month and board. Four years later he entered the medical department of the State University in New York City, graduating in 1832. He soon turned his face westward, travelling from Albany to Schenectady on the first passenger railroad in the United States. He continued his journey on a canal-boat to Buffalo, and by steamer from there to Cleveland, Ohio, thence to the Great Scioto river. Here he settled and practiced medicine for nearly five years, marrying, meantime, Maria, eldest daughter of Dan Young, a pioneer from New Hampshire. The health of his wife demanding a change of climate, he in 1836 removed to Northern Alabama, where he continued the practice of his profession until he found his constitution was being undermined by hard labor in what was then not only a hot but a malarious section. From here he went to Pike county, Missouri, a place made conspicuous by California emigration. It was here that in 1848 he had, unsolicited, the honor of being one of two or three physicians of that State on whom the medical department of the University of Missouri conferred the honorary degree of M. D. In January, 1853, Dr. Crane, with family, started by sailing vessel for California via the Horn. On the 3rd of May, 1853, he left San Francisco by steamer for Alviso, and thence to San Jose by stage. Here he lived and prospered for four years, when the continued ill health of his wife, caused him to relinquish charge of the city and county hospital and a large private practice and remove to Napa. Having studied viticulture as followed in France and Germany, and comparing the soil of this valley with that of other countries, he decided to engage in that industry and at once purchased nearly 400 acres of land near the little hamlet of St. Helena, paying therefor an average of between $6 and $7 per acre. He procured Mission cuttings from San Jose, there being no foreign ones in the country, and planted about twelve acres in February, 1859, a portion of which grew well. The planting was continued, and in ten years he possessed a vineyard of one hundred acres. He encountered all the vicissitudes usual to pioneers in any movement, but ultimately achieved success. It was not long after his acres of wilderness had been converted into a fruitful and beautiful home that his first wife died, and in 1872 he married the widow of A. J. Grayson, the ornithologist who lost his life while painting the ornithology of Central America. The doctor saw the little hamlet of redwood shanties near his home grow to a substantial and thrifty town with comfortable homes established so close together that stations along the line of railroad had to be placed a mile or two apart for the convenience of residents. For many years deceased lived quietly, always extending a hearty welcome to the visitor who crossed the threshold of his hospitable home. He passed considerable time in reading and writing. His articles for the press were many, and he was always pleased when new thoughts were brought out. In 1885, when 79 years old, he wrote his life history, together with incidents, experiences and comments on a variety of topics. This he caused to be published for distribution among his relatives and friends. And now that its author has gone, we quote from its pages a few of his thoughts on death: 'But why regard the day of death as an "evil day"? It is an event as natural as that of our birth. Our birth was for a purpose. We are compelled to believe, from an analogical reasoning, that there is a purpose in so called death. The apparent difference between birth and death is not real. The first is to people earth with rudimental intelligences, the next to translate those intelligences to a higher sphere of existence. Progress is the rule of nature.' What better can be said of him than that the ninety-two years of his earthly existence were spent in well-directed efforts for the benefit of mankind! He possessed a noble character, was a kind friend and a good citizen.

Child:

2302—1. MARY; m. John McPike. She d. a few years since, leaving four sons and a daughter, who together with their children number five grandchildren and six great-grandchildren that Dr. Crane left at his decease.

Judge ADDISON MOSES CRANE was born in Litchfield, Herkimer County, N. Y., July 2, 1814. He served at Buffalo, N. Y., in the Navy Island rebellion during the months of June and September, 1838. He married in Catskill, Greene County, Oct. 21, 1839, Gertrude Ashley, who was born at Catskill, June 20, 1820. They settled at Nunda, Livingston County, where their two eldest children were born. About 1844 he removed to La Fayette, Ind., where he served as judge from 1848 to 1852. In 1853 he removed to California, making the trip around Cape Horn, and settled in Alameda County. Here he purchased twelve acres of land, extending from Buena Vista avenue back to the Canal and from Oak to Walnut streets, in Oakland, where he lived. He was the first judge for Alameda County, 1853 to 1857, and represented Alameda County in the State Senate, 1862 and 1863, and was also a railroad commissioner. His death occurred Oct. 20, 1887, and the following memorial so plainly shows with what high esteem he was held by those who knew him best, that we cannot refrain from printing it in full:

“ IN MEMORIAM.

To the Hon. Superior Court of Alameda Co., Cal.

The committee heretofore appointed by this court to draft suitable resolutions respecting the death of the late Addison M. Crane report the following Preamble and Resolutions:

Whereas, We having learned with sincere regret of the death of Hon. Addison M. Crane, for many years a resident of this county, a member of the Bar of the State, and late Judge of this Court, which occurrence took place at his residence in the city of Oakland, on the 20th day of October, 1887; and

Whereas, We, as members of the Bar, have known him long and intimately, as well in private and social life, as in the worrying and harassing duties of his profession—ever finding him a conscientious, upright and faithful lawyer, an impartial and wise Judge, and an honest man, distinguished alike for his gentleness of manner and kindness of disposition, and in all the relations of life for strict fidelity and integrity—faithful and capable in the discharge of the duties devolving upon him as a lawyer and a Judge, truthful and trustworthy as a man, reliable and able in the discharge of the duties devolving upon him in the many official positions held by him—his character was always above reproach, without stain, and without blemish. Therefore,

Resolved, That in the death of Hon. Addison M. Crane society has lost a useful citizen and an influential man, and the Bar a faithful, capable and earnest member, and the County and State an old and respected citizen.

Resolved, That we tender to his surviving widow, his family and friends our heartfelt sympathy in their bereavement.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be presented to the family of the deceased, and also spread upon the minutes of this Court.

R. A. REDMAN,
JAMES C. MARTIN,
A. M. ROSBOROUGH,

JOHN CRANE, OF COVENTRY, CONNECTICUT, AND HIS DESCENDANTS.

Mr. William L. Weaver, then editor of the Willimantic Journal, began Oct. 10, 1862, to publish in that paper data relating to the history of Windham County, Conn., and gave considerable attention to genealogies of the families that were early settlers there. Among them were some of the descendants of Jonathan Crane, of Windham, and John Crane, of Coventry. For reasons best known to himself, the publication of the history was abandoned, although the publication of the genealogies was continued in the Journal for some time: and the following is copied from that paper, issued under date of Oct. 20, 1864, and from the pen of Mr. Weaver:—

“ John Crane, an early settler of Coventry, was the common ancestor of the Mansfield Cranes. We have made considerable effort to trace his ancestry, and to connect him with some of the early Crane families in New England; but without success. He was certainly one of the very early settlers of Coventry, where he was living in 1708, where he had land deeded to him. He was not a descendant from Jonathan, of Windham, and we cannot find that he was the son of either of the brothers of Jonathan, of Wethersfield; but we strongly suspect there was a connection between the families. The fact that John Crane, of Windham, settled in Coventry while John Crane, the Coventry settler, was living there; the similar family names and traditions among some branches of the Cranes, lend color to the suspicion. The early settlers of Coventry were mostly from the towns of the Connecticut River valley, including some families from Wethersfield; and we consider it not at all impossible that John Crane, the Coventry settler, was a son of the Wethersfield Cranes, though no record of his birth has been found there. John Crane was one of the accepted inhabitants of Coventry in 1730, when the first list of freemen was made; and, of course, a resident of the town at that time. He subsequently removed to Mansfield, but at what time is not ascertained. It is supposed that he lived near the Willimantic River, and that his removal to Mansfield was only across the stream, the dividing line between the towns. Descendants say he was buried in the Willimantic burying-ground above Eagleville, in Mansfield. We have not ascertained in regard to the church relations of John Crane; but from what we have been able to gather, judge that both he and his wife were pious and respectable people in comfortable circumstances. He is called Mr. in the Mansfield records,—then a special mark of respect.

John Crane's will names his "wife Abigail; children, Hezekiah, Ebenezer, John; three grandchildren of my daughter Abigail Barrows; daughter Mary Allen, wife of Samuel; and children of my daughter Ruth Paddock, deceased." Mrs. Crane also names the same children in her will. After careful investigation, with records of the various lines in view, the suspicion still remains, with accumulated strength, even bordering on belief, that John Crane, of Coventry, was a descendant of Benjamin, senior, of Wethersfield. From the birth of this John, of Coventry, in 1689 or 1690, to his death, in 1765, there were no less than seven John Cranes living within a radius of twenty-five or thirty miles from Wethersfield: John, son of Benjamin, b. 1663; John, son of Jonathan, b. 1687; John, son of Abraham, b. 1700; John, son of John of Jonathan, b. 1709; John, son of John of Coventry, b. 1716; John, son of John of Abraham, b. 1739; and John, son of John, of Coventry, b. 1743. It is, therefore, apparent that John was a popular name with the Crane family at that time, and great care has been exercised in arranging their children in their proper lines.

The question arises: If this John was grandson of Benjamin, senior, of Wethersfield, whose son was he? Most likely he was son of John, who went among the first settlers to Windham with his brother Jonathan. He is reported as having been by trade a blacksmith, and the record fixes his death Oct. 21, 1694, at the age of 31 years. He married Abigail Butler, by whom he had one child, Josiah, b. March 22, 1694. This marriage with Abigail Butler took place Oct. 27, 1692, he being then twenty-nine years and six months old. With the laws of the colony encouraging, and almost compelling, early marriages, it is not unlikely that this was his second marriage, and that, while in Windham, by a former wife, who had died, he had a son John. If not, why did he not follow the custom and name Abigail's child John? Of course, this is theory; no records have been found to confirm beyond doubt the position here taken. He may have been the son of Jacob, but that is rather doubtful.

John Crane, supposed to be this ancestor of the Mansfield Cranes, purchased land of Samuel Burnham, of Windsor, Conn., in 1708, which he sold in 1711 to Benjamin Jones. He then purchased home lot No. 68.

Rev. Jonathan Crane, for forty years a minister at Middletown, N. Y., who gave much time to investigating the history of his immediate family, entertained the same opinion, that this John, of Coventry, was grandson of Benjamin, of Wethersfield.

JASPER CRANE OF NEW HAVEN, CONN., ALSO, NEWARK, N. J., AND HIS DESCENDANTS.

FIRST GENERATION.

1. JASPER CRANE¹ was one of the original settlers of the New Haven Colony, June 4, 1639, and signed the first agreement at a general meeting of all the free planters held in Mr. Newman's barn. He took the oath of fidelity at the organization of the government, with Campfield, Pennington, Gov. Eaton and others. In 1644 he was "freed from watching and trayning in his own person because of his weakness, but to find one for his turn." Was a member (with Treat) of the General Court, and many years a magistrate. Was interested in a bog-ore furnace at East Haven in 1651. He removed to Branford in 1652. He was elected a magistrate in 1658, and held the office of deputy for some years previous to that date.

In a note-book kept by Thomas Lechford, Esq., a lawyer in Boston, Massachusetts Bay, from June 27, 1638, to July 29, 1641, we find the following: "Samuel Searle of Quinapeage Planter in behalfe of Jasper Crane of the same Agent or Attorney for Mr. Roe Citizen of London Demiseth unto Henry Dawson and John Search of the Same one house and house lott and three acres of land lying in Boston wherein William Herrerike now dwelleth from 29 Sept. next for five years four pounds ten shillings rent half yearly, to fence to the value four pounds ten shillings, to repaire 21-6-1640."

This transaction, showing his connection with a gentleman of London, England, would lead one to think that he certainly was known there, and might have lived there. Whether or not the above record furnished the foundation for the tradition that he came from London to America, we do not know. But such a tradition has been cherished by some of his descendants. Extensive research among the record offices in London has thus far failed however of finding any trace of him there. It is also said that he came over from England with Winthrop in the ship Arbella.

But the date of Jasper Crane's birth, or the place in which he was born, have not been fixed. Whether he came from parents occupying high or middle stations in life can as yet only be determined by the records revealed to us. He assuredly was one of the staunch and active men among the first settlers of the New Haven Colony as well as one of the fathers of the new settlement in New Jersey. He, with Capt. Robert Treat, seemed to have a large share of the weight of responsibility of that young colony upon their shoulders, and its success at heart. Mr.

Crane did not go, it is said, with the first company to "Milford," as the first settlement at Newark, N. J., was called, but signed, with twenty-two others, the first contract in 1665. Jan. 20, 1667, he headed the list of signers and church members of the first Church at Newark, and became one of the most influential and active men of the new colony. Jasper Crane and Robert Treat were the first magistrates in Newark. It is said that Mr. Crane was dissatisfied at the New Haven Colony becoming united with the Connecticut Colony; he preferred to have the New Haven Colony remain separate.

He was a surveyor and merchant, as well as a magistrate, and with Mr. Myles laid out the most of the New Haven town plot, located grants, established division lines, and settled disputed titles. It is said that he was steward of Rev. John Davenport's property in 1639. In March, 1641, he received a grant of 100 acres of land in the East Meadow. He was one of the New Haven Company concerned in the settlement on the Delaware River in 1642, who were so roughly handled by the Dutch. In 1643 his estate was voted at £480, with three persons in his family,—self, wife and son John. In 1644-45 he received a grant of 16 acres of upland, situated in East Haven, upon which he built a house, in which his son Joseph was born. While residing at this place he was in trade as a merchant, but not being satisfied with the location he sold this place Sept. 7, 1652, and became one of the first planters of Branford, Conn., a new settlement then just being instituted by families from Wethersfield, Conn., under the leadership of Mr. Swayne, and a few from Southampton, L. I.

Jasper Crane, Esq., and Mr. Wm. Swayne were the first deputies to the General Court of Electors from Branford in May, 1653, Mr. Crane being returned during the four succeeding years. In May, 1658, he was chosen one of four magistrates for the New Haven Colony and held the office by appointment until 1663; also one of the magistrates called together by the Governor, at Hartford, in 1665-67. In the union of the Colonies he was chosen one of the assistants, was also Trustee of County Court, New Haven, 1644. His house lot in New Haven was located on what is now Elm Street, at the corner of Orange Street, the same now occupied by the Church of St. Thomas.

The first Church of Newark was founded in 1667, and a building erected, about 1714 or 1716, a second meeting-house was built, and the third erected about 1787 to 1791. The people of Orange, Bloomfield and Montclair communed with the Newark Church until about 1716. In fact, for considerably more than a hundred years after the founding of Newark the crest of the first mountain was the western boundary of the town, and until the year 1806 the town of Newark was divided into three wards: Newark Ward, Orange Ward, and Bloomfield Ward. That year Orange became a separate town, and six years later Bloomfield Ward became the town of Bloomfield. This part of Newark took in the territory from the Passaic on the east to the crest of the first mountain on the west, and as this section was so thoroughly occupied by the descendants of Jasper Crane it was early called Cranetown.

Jasper Crane senior was one of the purchasers of the "Kingsland Farms," an immense estate near Newark, now known as Belleville.

The exact date that Jasper senior took his leave of Branford has not been definitely fixed. In the spring of 1666 the people of Branford, becoming dissatisfied about the union of the New Haven and Connecticut Colonies, and particularly on account of granting the right of suffrage to the inhabitants not members of the church, resolved at once to remove to New Jersey, as agents, who had been sent thither, came back bringing favorable reports of the new country. In October, after adopting a code of laws for their government, Mr. Pierson with a portion of his congregation left Branford for their future home, Newark, N. J. Jasper senior although one of the original twenty-three who signed the first contract in 1665, still was active in public affairs in Branford, holding the office of assistant magistrate in 1666 and 1667. But Jan. 30, 1667, he headed the list of signers to a new covenant and disposing of his property at Branford that year took up his permanent home at Newark and became very prominent in all transactions of the town, especially during the first fourteen years of its growth and development. He was the first president of the town court, and first on the list of deputies to the General Assembly of New Jersey for several years. At the drawing of Home Lots, Feb. 6, 1667, Lot 49 fell to the senior Jasper Crane, No. 40 to Deliverance Crane, and No. 62 to John Crane, they being his two eldest sons.

At a town meeting of Newark, held January, 1668, Jasper Crane, with Robert Treat, were chosen magistrates for the year ensuing, and also deputies or burgesses for the General Assembly for the same year. This Robert Treat was the first recorder or town clerk for Newark, and was exceedingly prominent in all public matters while he remained in the settlement. But in 1671 he returned to Connecticut, where he was held in high esteem, and for several years was Governor of that Colony, proving a faithful and conscientious worker for the interest of the inhabitants under his charge. From January, 1668, until his death, Jasper Crane senior was given a prominent part to perform in the settlement of Newark. May 20, 1668, he as one of a committee signed an agreement fixing the dividing line between Newark Town and Elizabeth Town. July 28, 1669, he with Robert Treat was chosen by the town to take first opportunity "to go to 'York' to advise with Col. Lovelace concerning our standing. Whether we are designed to be a part of the Duke's Colony or not, and about the Neck, and liberty of purchasing lands up the river, that the Town would petition for." Re-elected magistrate January, 1669, "and Deputy to the General Assembly if there shall be any." He with Robert Treat were chosen to be moderators of town meetings for the year ensuing. Jan. 2, 1670, again chosen magistrate and deputy, serving in latter capacity annually until 1674, and at the town meeting Feb. 20, it was voted that the governor be requested to confirm Jasper Crane and Robert Treat magistrates or justices of the peace. The same honors were conferred in 1671, and in addition it was voted Jan. 22, 1671, that "every man should bring his half bushel to Henry Lyon & Joseph Waters and have it tried and sealed when made fit with Mr. Crane's, which for the present is the standard." Mr. Crane was also one of a committee to see to burning the woods for a year. May 13, 1672, Mr. Crane and Lieut. Swain were chosen representatives for the town to consult with other representatives of the country to order matters for the safety for the country. June 17, 1672, Mr. Crane was again chosen magistrate, and also chosen "President of the Quarterly Court to be held in Newark to begin September next." He was also given "liberty to sell liquors in the town till the country order alter it."

At a town meeting July 1, 1673, Mr. Crane was chosen to serve on a committee, with Mr. Bond, Mr. Swain, Mr. Kitchell and Mr. Lyon, to consider with messengers from other towns about sending a petition to the Lords Proprietors in England for the removal of grievances; and July 5th the town agreed to pay for sending the messenger to England, as the above committee had agreed with Mr. Delevall about money to cover that expense.

August 4th the town chose Mr. Crane, Mr. Bond, Lieut. Swain and Sergeant John Ward deputies to treat with the generals about having a privileged county between the two rivers Passaic and Araratine. August 12th again chosen magistrate; September 6th, on committee to try and secure the "Neck" to add to the possessions of Newark; and September 16th instructed by the town to "treat with the generals, and, if they can, to buy it." It would seem the committee were successful, for October 25th Mr. Crane, Mr. Molyns and Mr. Hopkins were chosen to look after the confirmation of the purchase of the Neck and sue for further easement in respect to pay. November 17th Capt. Swain and Mr. Crane were chosen to continue the trade for the Neck. The following year (June 29, 1674,) the town voted to have Mr. Crane and Mr. Pierson, Jr., carry the petition and present it to the Governor and Council at North Orange to "obtain confirmation of their bought and paid for lands." August 10, 1674, was again chosen magistrate. Mr. Crane was now becoming quite advanced in years, and the important and exacting services required of him by the town must have proved a heavy tax upon his strength, for he now dropped out of political office, while his sons, John, Azariah and Jasper, Jr., began to work in. Feb. 19, 1678-9, it having been discovered that many of the settlers had taken up lands contrary to a town agreement, Mr. Crane stated at town meeting that he would lay down all lands so taken if others would, and March 10th following he was chosen, with Robert Dalglish and Jasper Crane, Jr., to lay out Samuel Potter's lot again. This entry, so far as the public records of Newark shows, closes the public life of the senior Jasper Crane.

If we may judge from the entries upon the Newark Town Records we should say that, next to Robert Treat, Jasper Crane was the most prominent figure in the early settlement of that town. After Treat returned to Connecticut, Jasper Crane's name came first in the filling by popular vote the highest and most responsible positions of public trust in the settlement. That he held the confidence of the people is clearly manifested by their returning him annually for so many years, and until the infirmities of age unfitted him for further public service. But the family name and traits of character were appreciated, for no sooner than the name of Jasper senior disappears from the proceedings of the town meetings than the names of John, Azariah and Jasper, Jr., are brought into recognition. The patents for land in Newark to Jasper Crane, Aug. 25, 1675, covering one hundred and sixty-eight acres, are as follows: "House: lot 14 acres, 17 a. his first division on Great Neck, 11 a. in part for his second division on said Neck, 6 a. on said Neck, 4 a. at bottom of the Neck, 20 a. for his second division by Two Mile Brook, 26 a. his third division by head of Mile Brook, 20 a. for his third division at the head of the branch of Second River, 14 a. of meadow for his first division at Great Island, 12 a. of meadow for his second division by the Great Pond, 14 a. for proportion of bogs, 5 a. of meadow near the Great Island, 1 a. of meadow at Beef Point, 4 a. of meadow near Wheeler's Point, yealding $\frac{1}{2}$ penny lawful money of England, or in such pay as the country doth produce at merchants' price, for every one of the said acres, the first payment to begin the 25th of March, which was in the year 1670." These lands were taken up and occupied some time prior to date of the patents. Another warrant seems to have been issued to Jasper Crane, May 1, 1675, for 103 acres of land in Newark.

At a town meeting held Aug. 24, 1670, an agreement was made with Mr. Robert Treat and Sergt. Richard Harrison to build and maintain a sufficient corn-mill upon the brook called Mill Brook. They were given sole privilege of this brook, with all the town grists, and all stone within the town limits suitable for millstones, with all the timber that was prepared by Joseph Horton for the mill, and two days' work of every man and woman that holds an allotment in the town, with all the lands formerly granted to Joseph Horton. They were to hold this land as their own so long as they held and maintained the mill, and not to dispose of the mill without consent of the town. The town was also to give thirty pounds in good wheat, pork, beef, or one-fourth in good Indian corn, at such prices as would enable them to exchange it for or procure iron, millstones, or the workman's wages, &c.: Winter wheat 5 shillings per bushel; summer wheat 4s. 5d.; pork 3d. per lb.; beef 2d.; Indian corn 2s. 6d. per bushel. As Mr. Treat was to return to Connecticut, Jasper Crane assumed his portion of the contract.

From Jasper Crane we have a large number of descendants—one branch of them located westward of Newark, and five or six miles distant, calling the place Cranetown. Some of his descendants located four miles southward of Newark, at a place called Elizabeth Town. Among those who settled here was Stephen Crane, who there is good reason to believe was an elder son of Jasper, born in England about 1630.

From these points members of the family pressed their way further westward, crossing the Passaic River, settling Morris County. They were all remarkable for frugality, honesty and piety, and were mostly Presbyterians. It has been said by one, not a member of the family, "no more respectable people, no better citizens, are found in our communities than those who bear Crane blood in them."

Oct. 30, 1666, at a meeting in Branford, Conn., the preliminary agreement outlining the conduct of the proposed new settlement upon the "Passiack River in the Province of New Jersey" was signed by many Branford people, among them Jasper Crane senior and his sons John and Delivered.* These three names appear among the first proprietors of the town of Newark, and at the town meeting held Feb. 6, 1667, Mr. Jasper Crane, John and Deliverance* appear to have been present. Thenceforth for more than a century the name of Crane occupied a conspicuous place in the annals of the town, and scarcely a town meeting was held during a period of one hundred years that there was not a Crane chosen to fill some town office, and it was not unusual to elect to public positions several of the name at one meeting. But March 13, 1759, the family seemed to have reached the zenith of its popularity, for at that meeting by vote of the town eight different offices were filled by Cranes. As it appears, however, that John Crane was chosen collector and John Crane to serve on a committee to settle a line in the parsonage land, it may have required but seven Cranes to fill the eight positions; so that the election held this day exceeded but a trifle that held March 12, 1754, when six Cranes were elected to fill seven public positions. Their names were: John, for collector; Timothy and Ezekiel, surveyors of highways; Elijah and William, overseers of the poor; John, clerk of strays; Noah, on committee to settle the line between the towns of Newark and Elizabethtown.

Jasper Crane's will, dated 1678, named children John, Azariah, Jasper, and Hannah Huntington, and granddaughter Hannah Huntington; John to have his "silver bole." Mr.

* This name is spelled both ways.

SECOND GENERATION.

9. JOHN CRANE² [2], (Jasper¹). Rev. Stephen Dodd says he married Elizabeth Foote, a sister of Nathaniel Foote, of Wethersfield, Conn., and settled in Branford, Conn., in 1663, signing the Branford agreement with his father. He with his brothers Delivered and Jasper were among the first to remove to the settlement of Newark, N. J., in the spring of 1666. The first town meeting was held in Newark, May 21, 1666. He died in 1694, aged 59. He was first elected to public office there as fence viewer, Jan. 2, 1670-1, and he soon became prominent in public affairs. He had a seat in the first meeting-house in Newark. Was among the deputies to the General Assembly of New Jersey, 1671-5. In 1674, he was chosen by vote of the town to warn the people, at his end of the town, of town meetings. He was chosen grand jurymen for 1677, and selectman in 1683. His house lot plated on the map of Newark, published in 1806, places it on Broad Street, northerly from Trinity Episcopal Church and the upper Common, and extending to the Passaic River. He was to have the "silver bole," and at his death, the bowl evidently went to his brother Azariah, although it may have passed through the hands of Delivered. A warrant was issued under date, April 27, 1694, to him for seventy-three acres of land, in eight parcels, the fifth by Maple Island. His will, dated, 1694, proved Jan. 6, 1695, names wife Hannah. She was his 2d wife. Children:

10—1. JOHN, b. 1671.

11—2. JASPER, b. 1679.

12—3. DANIEL, b. 1684.

13—4. SARAH.

14. HANNAH CRANE² [3], (Jasper¹), married Thomas Huntington, who was son of that Simon who died on the passage from England to Boston, in 1633. Thomas had two brothers, Simon and Christopher. Margaret, mother of Thomas, lived for a time in Roxbury, Mass. Married for 2d husband, Thos. Stoughton, of Dorchester, Mass., and removed to Windsor, Conn. Thomas Huntington was freeman in Connecticut, in 1657; settled in Branford, in 1663, and died after 1684. She married 2d, John Ward senior, of Branford, and was his 2d wife. Children:

15—1. SAMUEL.

16—2. HANNAH.

17. MERCY (or MARY) CRANE² [5], (Jasper¹), married Jonathan Bell of Stamford, Conn., Aug. 22, 1662. He was the first white child born in that town. She died Oct. 26, 1671, leaving three children. Mr. Bell, Oct. 31, 1672, married Susanna Pierson of Branford, Conn. Children:

1. JONATHAN (Bell), b. Feb. 14, 1663.
2. HANNAH (Bell), b. Aug. 29, 1665.
3. REBECCA (Bell), b. Dec. 6, 1667.
4. ABIGAIL (Bell), b. Dec. 23, 1673.
5. ABRAHAM (Bell), b. June 22, 1675.
6. MERCY (Bell), b. Nov. 5, 1678.
7. JOHN (Bell), b. Jan. 16, 1681.
8. A daughter, b. Aug. 3, 1683.
9. JAMES (Bell), b. Dec. 11, 1684.
10. SUSANNAH (Bell), b. Dec. 25, 1686.
11. MARY (Bell), b. Sept. 29, 1689.

18. Deacon AZARIAH CRANE² [7], (Jasper¹), married Mary daughter of Capt. Robert Treat. She was born 1649, died Nov. 12, 1704, aged 55; he died Nov. 5, 1730, in his 83d year. In the overturn of the government by the Dutch, etc., he was entrusted with the concerns of his father-in-law, Mr. Robert Treat, who was Governor of Connecticut during the Charter Oak affair. Azariah appears to have outlived all the original settlers and left his silver bowl to be used forever in the 1st Presbyterian Church in Newark, where he was a deacon from 1690 until his death. He held many offices of public trust in the town: in 1690, on committee of safety; in 1691, chosen to care for the poor of the town; in 1692, to treat with Rev. John Pruden to become the minister; Jan. 1693-4, deputy to Provincial Assembly, also deputy in 1695; selectman in 1676, 1683 and 1694; also as constable, grand juryman, pound-keeper; to look after the young people of the town, to lay out highways, view children's estates, overseer of the poor, etc.

As early as 1715, he was living on his home place at the Mountain, and it is almost certain that he located there many years prior to that date, for we find in the early town records the following: "By warrant, April 27, 1694, there was laid out by John Gardner a tract of land at the foot of the Mountain, having Azariah Crane on the northeast, and Jasper Crane on the southwest."

June 9, 1679, warrants were issued to him for 136 acres in nine parcels, the sixth was fifty acres on branches of the Elizabeth River, April 27, 1694, 100 acres in three parcels. April 19, 1698, the town voted that a committee of five should view whether Azariah Crane should be given land out of the Common for a tanyard at the front of John Plum's home lot; on committee in 1706, to treat with Rev. Samuel Whittlesey, to settle in work of the ministry. They must have had some little trouble in securing the right man, for March 21, 1708, he was on a committee to instruct Mr. Pearson, who was going to New England, to endeavor to procure a minister. He secured

Nathaniel Bowers, who remained with the people there until his death, Aug. 30, 1716, and again Mr. Crane was on committee to secure a new minister.

There was apparently some hitch in the arrangement for the tannery before referred to, for Azariah soon after that date removed to a place near the mountain, and formed a settlement known as Cranetown (Montclair), six miles from Newark. Jan. 13, 1719, there was organized a Church called "The Society at the Mountain," now Orange, two miles west of Newark, and during that year land was purchased for a meeting-house plot of Thomas Gardner, and soon a small church edifice was erected. Azariah Crane became a prominent actor in the society, and for many years was a deacon there, living to the age of seventy-four years.

His sons, Nathaniel, Noah, Azariah and William, also in their turn, took leading positions in this society, aiding materially with funds in building the church edifice. William succeeded his father Azariah as deacon in that Church. Oct., 1785, this mountain "Society at the Mountain" was first called "Orange Dale," and two years later the "Dale" was omitted, and thenceforth known as Orange.

In June, 1798, Joseph Crane, son of Noah, was deacon of this Church. He was then a resident of Cranetown, and afterwards became elder in the Church at Bloomfield. Of the elders in that Church by the name of Crane, we may name Lewis, who died in 1777, aged 59; Noah in office, 1776, died June 8, 1800, aged 81; Joseph, mentioned above, in office, 1794-98, died Oct. 11, 1832, aged 81. Children:

- 19—1. HANNAH; m. John Plum, of Milford, Conn., and had MARY, who m. Mr. Dickenson.
- 20—2. NATHANIEL, b. about 1680.
- 21—3. AZARIAH, b. 1682.
- 22—4. ROBERT, b. 1684.
- 23—5. JANE, b. 1686.
- 24—6. MARY, b. 1693; m. Mr. Baldwin.
- 25—7. JOHN, b. 1695.
- 26—8. RICHARD; d. in infancy.
- 27—9. JASPER; d. in infancy.

28. JASPER CRANE² [8], (Jasper¹), married Joanna Swaine, born 1651, daughter of Capt. Samuel and Joannah Swaine. She died Sept. 16, 1720, aged 69. He was born at East Haven, Conn., and removed with his parents to New Jersey. In 1684, he purchased the property of Robert Lyman, who had returned to England. He was a member of the Assembly in 1704, in Cornbury's time, and also a magistrate.

He with his brothers John and Deliverance, owned seats in the first Church in Newark. Jasper, Jr., was given his share of public honors, having been chosen by popular vote to fill the various offices of fence viewer, surveyor of highways, constable, and selectman, as well as committeeman, deputy to the Provincial Assembly in 1697-1702, and to see about settling the minister, and the boundary controversy between Newark and Elizabethtown, etc. He received two warrants for land, one, April 27, 1694, and the other, April 10, 1696, aggregating 120 acres, located on branches of the Elizabethtown River.

Jasper Crane has a house lot located on the map of Newark, published in 1806, at the corner of High and Market Streets; whether this was meant for senior or junior does not appear.

It is quite certain that he located in that part of Newark called Cranetown, afterwards West Bloomfield, now Montclair. Soon after the year 1681, at which time the town of Newark ordered the laying out of a highway as far as the mountain, which act no doubt was for the accommodation of settlers in that portion of the town, and where in the year, 1694, the town records give him a location, and it is said that his descendants, and those of his brother Azariah, occupied nearly, if not quite, all the westerly side of the town. He died March 6, 1712, aged 62. His tombstone stood in the Presbyterian churchyard on Broad Street, Newark. According to his will he had the following children:

- 29—1. JOSEPH, b. 1676.
- 30—2. ELIHU, b. 1689.
- 31—3. DAVID, b. 1693.
- 32—4. JONATHAN, b. 1678.
- 33—5. SARAH, b. 1683; m. Joseph Wheeler.
- 34—6. HANNAH, b. 1690; m. Robt. Ogden, Esq.

THIRD GENERATION.

35. JOHN CRANE³ [10], (John², Jasper¹), in 1719, was chosen assessor and collector of taxes, and served as such several years. He was overseer of the poor in 1725, and sheep-master same year, and in 1736, to record strays. For many years he was assessor and rate maker; tithingman in 1735; and chosen on committee to agree with Rev. Aaron Burr, Nov., 1736. He removed to Whippany; died Feb. 22, 1739, aged 68, buried at Whippany. His will, dated Jan. 2, 1734, proved May, 1739, names the following children:

- 36—1. JOHN.

- 47—5. HANNAH; m. ——— Kingsland.

48. DANIEL CRANE³ [12], (John,² Jasper¹), married Phebe, supposed to have been daughter of Nathaniel Ward. He died Sept. 8, 1747, aged 63 years, and was buried at Newark, N. J. Children:

- 49—1. PHEBE, b. 1711; d. Jan. 8, 1732, aged 21.

- 58—10. JOANNA; m. Stephen Young.
- 59—11. LYDIA.

60. Major NATHANIEL CRANE³ [20], (Azariah,² Jasper¹), married Elizabeth Gibson. He settled near a spring at West

Bloomfield on the place which was afterwards occupied by Cyrus Pierson as late as 1851. The spring near which he lived is located near the railway depot in Montclair, N. J. He was chosen to record strays March, 1744. He died in 1760, aged about 80 years. The will (1760) names the children.

About the year 1716 the people in and about Cranetown formed what for some years was known as the "Mountain Society" and later became the "Second Church of Newark," now the "First Presbyterian Church of Orange." He, in 1753, was one of the subscribers to build the second meeting-house. His son Nathaniel, Jr., was also a subscriber with the following Cranes: Caleb, William, Job, Gamaliel, Noah, Stephen, Jedediah, Louis, Elihu and Ezekiel. Their subscriptions amounting to 56-16-6. Dec. 7, 1796, a resolution was passed by the congregation and trustees assuming the title of "The Presbyterian Church of Bloomfield," and the following Cranes contributed to hire a minister for six months: Oliver, Stephen, William, Job, Simeon, Widow Susanna, Phineas, Noah, Noah, Jr., Joseph, Israel, Aaron, Nathaniel, Benjamin, Eleakim, Widow Jane and Iddok (probably meant for Zadock). Children:

- 61—1. WILLIAM.
- 62—2. NOAH, b. 1719.
- 63—3. NATHANIEL; never married.
- 64—4. ELIZABETH; m. — Young.
- 65—5. JANE; m. — Smith.
- 66—6. MEHITABEL.

67. AZARIAH CRANE³ [21], (Azariah,² Jasper¹). Azariah, Jr., had wife Rebecca. In 1733 he granted three acres at the mountain plantation to his well beloved son-in-law Zachariah Baldwin. He settled at West Bloomfield, N. J., near his brother Nathaniel. Elias B. Crane lived on the place in 1851. She died June 15, 1739, aged 48, and he married again. He with his brother Nathaniel were the promoters of (Cranetown) Montclair, locating their home places near the spring which was a few years ago, and possibly at present time may be seen near the railroad depot at Montclair, N. J. In 1753 Azariah conveyed to his son Azariah a tract of land extending to the top of the mountain. He was a subscriber to the fund for erecting a parsonage at Montclair, and also the meeting-house. He was not without his honors at the hands of his fellow-townsmen; as early as Nov. 2, 1703, he was chosen one of the pounders. Children:

- 68—1. REBECCA, b. Sept. 6, 1707.
- 69—2. AZARIAH.

- 72—5. EZEKIEL.
- 73—6. JOSIAH.
- 74—7. MOSES, b. 1731.
- 75—8. STEPHEN.

76. ROBERT CRANE³ [22], (Azariah,² Jasper¹), married Phebe ——. She died May 13, 1759. He died July 14, 1755, aged 71. His will named children as given below. He is said to have lived in a stone house in Newark, N. J. It seems quite certain that having been named for his grandfather Robert Treat he inherited a part of the land in Newark once the property of this grandfather, located on Market Street, between Broad and Mulberry Streets, and back of the old meeting-house through to Washington Street. In 1806 the Presbyterian Church stood on what was once a portion of this estate. Mr. Isaac Watts Crane says Mulberry Street was formerly called Baldwin's Lane. He also writes that on this above-mentioned tract of land, meaning the Robert Treat estate, he could recall among those who had occupied it "John Crane, Isaac, Timothy, Obadiah, & Azariah." They were doubtless all of them descendants of Deacon Azariah Crane, father of this Robert. March 11, 1718, he was chosen pounder, and surveyor of highways in 1736 and 1737, and fence viewer in 1740. Children:

77—1. EUNICE, b. 1720; m. David Johnson.

78—2. TIMOTHY, b. 1726.

79—3. ISAAC.

80—4. JOSIAH, b. 1732.

82—6. PHEBE.

83—7. LYDIA; m. Timothy Bruen.

84. JANE CRANE³ [23], (Azariah,² Jasper¹), married John Richards, and settled at Newark, N. J. She was his first wife. She died Sept. 12, 1741, aged 55. He died March 16, 1748, aged 61. Children:

1745, aged 27 years. This Jonas was father of Rufus, and this Rufus was father of William, of Baltimore, Md. He lived on the east side of Broad Street, on a part of the home lot inherited by his mother from her father Robert Treat; was a very active and influential man in the town. He was chosen in 1740 recorder for strays as well as assessor of taxes. 154. WILLIAM CRANE⁴ [61], (Nathaniel,³ Azariah,² Jasper¹), married 1st, — Wheeler, of Newark; 2d, Mary (or Mercy) —. He resided in that part of Newark called for many years Cranetown, then West Bloomfield, now Mont Clair, N. J., and was a subscriber for the purpose of hiring a minister to preach the Gospel there. He was overseer of the poor from 1753 to 1756 inclusive, and of highways from 1760 to 1764; freeholder, 1767. He may have inherited property here from his father, and possibly succeeded to the home estate; of that, however, we are not certain, but the notable Crane mansion occupied by him or his family during the period of the war of the Revolution, still standing at the junction of Valley road and Clairmont avenue, was his home, and occupied about three weeks by Gen. Washington as his headquarters, Gen. Lafayette being with him. The time of occupation doubtless being from the latter week in October to about the middle of November, 1780. While those two great generals were making Mr. Crane's house their home, he with four if not five of his sons were performing soldiers' duties in the army of which they were the commanders. It is related by Rev. Oliver

Crane, D.D., LL.D., that on the arrival of Gen. Washington at the house, Mercy Crane then in charge, and causing supper to be prepared, discovered she had no tea to serve, and becoming quite disturbed about it offered an apology to the General for the lack of what might seem to him an important feature of his repast. "Never mind, my good lady," replied His Excellency, "please have a crust of bread toasted and use it for tea, that is good enough for me." Mrs. Crane's anxiety was thus dispelled, and supper was served. Night came on, and the capacity of the house for beds was overtaxed, the lower back room selected by the two generals for their use, had been used for the dining-room, the deficiency of beds then was thereupon made known to the General, who rejoined, "But there is plenty of straw in the barn, is there not?" The straw was soon brought in and spread in one corner of the room, and the two famous generals retired to rest, wrapped in their army blankets, on that bundle of straw.

 - 161—7. JAMES; d. unmarried.
 - 162—8. ZADOC, b. 1758; m.; no children; d. 1841. Gen. Washington had an old gray horse which was almost as well known as its rider. Zadoc Crane, one of the Revolutionary Fathers, took care of the old gray when Washington was at Cranetown, in New Jersey. While Zadoc took care of the horse, the family entertained Washington, and waited upon him with a finely Japanned server. This server, though the Japanning is all worn off, was brought to the Fair to exhibit in Bric-a-brac, by Mrs. Emma Fasshaber, whose father was Zadoc Crane's uncle. Those were times famous for having tried men's souls, and it was absolutely necessary to exercise the greatest care and vigilance. The oats fed to Washington's horse were kept concealed under a stack of hay, and every time Zadoc got a mess from under it he replaced the hay nicely, and after feeding, he carefully picked up every scattered straw for fear the British might nose the oats and "cabbage" them.
- During the time Washington was occupying "Cranetown Gap," as he styled it, the alarm came that the British were about to make an attempt on the American lines in their somewhat insecure position, and desiring to be in readiness to meet such a movement should it be made, and not feeling at this critical moment that he had a man to spare from the ranks, he called for volunteers outside of those in the service to act as couriers to warn the minute-men living beyond the so called "first and second mountains," covering the region between the Passaic River and the second mountain, including Horseneck, Pine Brook, Swinefield, etc. Zadoc, a son of William, who had been lame from boyhood, offered to assume the difficult and perilous undertaking. Although lame, one leg being shorter than the other, was well able to ride on horseback, and soon appeared mounted on his own spirited horse, and armed with a heavy cutlass, this being his only weapon; just as the sun was disappearing behind the mountains, under special orders from the General, he set out on his important errand. It was a ride for the night, calling at every house and routing them from their slumbers. As the gray of the morning began to show itself, he was marching his men toward the Crane mansion, and just at day-break drew up his squad in front of the doorstep, on which stood Gen. Washington for the purpose of inspecting them. "Well done, my man," was the salute of His Excellency. "Now come in and take a horn of whiskey, for you must need it."

During the Revolutionary war he lived in Newark, was taken prisoner by the British, and had his feet frozen from exposure. He lived in a stone house, with quite a large lot of land surrounding it, situated on — Street, in Newark, N. J. His youngest daughter Abigail inherited the estate, and resided there for many years, refusing to part with the land, although urged to do so by persons needing it for the site of stores and for other business purposes. In 1836 she was residing there; but a few years later she was persuaded to relinquish the place and secure a home in another portion of the city. It is said she had previously refused $10,000 in money and a lot with a much better house upon it in exchange for her home. But now she was far advanced in years and by force of circumstances obliged to yield to the onward march of improvements. She died about 1844, soon after leaving her old home. This stone house had over the door the figures 1760. Mr. Edwin Crane thinks that may have been the date of its construction. Children:

318. JOSIAH CRANE⁴ [101], (Joseph,³ Jasper,² Jasper¹), married Phebe —. Will, 1786, names children and wife Phebe. From the headstone at his grave we learn that he died Dec. 15, 1785, in the 67th year of his age, and that he was known as Captain Josiah Crane; also that his wife's name was Jerusha; that she died Oct. 10, 1777, in the 55th year of her age. The writer has not been able to learn whether Captain Josiah lived at Connecticut Farms or not, although his son Josiah did; therefore it is uncertain which one of these two Josiahs is referred to in the town records, March 8, 1768, where it reads: "Josiah Crane, at the Farms, chosen one of the overseers of highways." At this time there were no less than four Josiah Cranes, of suitable age to serve in public office; hence the difficulty of proper designation. Children:

March 8, 1757, was chosen one of the overseers of highways. She was left a widow, and married Paul Day, and her will, dated 1785, names the following children:

Jonathan Edwards, of Stockbridge, Mass., father of Col. Aaron Burr, who killed Alexander Hamilton in a duel. March 12, 1776, he was chosen one out of a committee of thirty-seven to oversee the highways in the town of Newark. This would seem as if they were putting things in order for the transportation of armies. It certainly shows that the roads about Newark needed a vast amount of attention. She died in 1781, aged 59. daughter of Dr. Benjamin Hathaway, of Morristown, N. J., born Oct. 6, 1746; she died April 19, 1792.

Mrs. D. H. Law, a descendant who has given much time to investigation, writes that he entered into covenant in the Presbyterian Church of Morristown, Nov. 4, 1764; that he served as lieutenant in Captain Halsey's Company, Eastern Battalion, Morris Co., N. J. Militia, during August and September, 1776, and as captain from September until the close of the Revolutionary war. In the spring of 1784, he removed to Goshen, N. Y., with his three sons, and purchased three hundred acres of land in Orange Co., giving each of them a farm there. Some of his descendants still (1897) reside on a portion of that original tract of land. By trade he was a hatter, and before removing to New York State, kept a store in Morristown, N. J. He was a large man, weighing about 250 pounds. Is said to have married three times, one wife being a Kitchell, of Rockaway Neck, N. J., but all his children were by his first wife. He died July 14, 1822, aged 77. He was a man of good repute, and enjoyed the confidence and respect of all who knew him. His last wife survived him. Children:

He was a house-builder, and at one time owned and operated the Hoboken ferry, at which time he resided in New Jersey, opposite New York city. He was a schoolmate of Martin Van Buren and DeWitt Clinton. Was also a surveyor, and became one of the first settlers of Mentz, Cayuga Co., N. Y. Was the first supervisor of the town of Aurelius when it embraced nearly one-half of the present territory of Cayuga Co. Was appointed justice of the peace and associate justice of the court of common pleas by Gov. John Jay, March 9, 1796. He left Morristown Church March 2, 1775. 437. As the brothers whose names are given below were cousins of the above Shadrack Crane, we give here what we have been able to obtain concerning their descendants. The name of their father seems not to have been made clear. Whether it was Stephen or John (uncles to Shadrack) we do not know, although that would seem probable, or it may have been Aaron. Alexander Dallas Crane gave the latter as his grandfather's name, and at the same time said his own father Stephen was cousin to Shadrack Crane, who married Hannah Palmer. A daughter of Martin L. Crane writes: "Aaron was half brother to Stephen, I think. I never heard his name mentioned in connection with the Cranes but once or twice, and then I asked my father who Aaron was; he said to me he was 'an odd sheep' and they never paid any attention to him. That is all I know of the said Aaron."

When a small boy he was bound out by an older brother to a teamster who lived near the family home. The boy was so harshly treated that he ran away, and while travelling barefooted and ragged, without food, he came upon a woman milking a cow, and asked her for food and lodging. He stayed with this family a number of years, who treated him very kindly, and gave him some schooling; but he finally became homesick, and returned to his old home. About the year 1807 or 1808 he left the State of New Jersey, and sought to better his fortune in what was then the wilderness of Central New York, and settled in the town of Genoa, Cayuga County. He stayed there until the 6th of May, 1810, when he moved to what is now the town of Marion, Wayne County, about one-half mile from the pleasant little village of Marion. His house was made of logs, with bark roof, stone fireplace, and blankets for doors. In this house he lived about two years, clearing his land and turning his hand to anything by which he might earn an honest penny. He built the first blacksmith shop in town. He was also a famous shingle-maker; could do a fair job at mason-work or carpentering. In the War of 1812 he went to the defence of Pultneyville, and afterwards volunteered for six months on Niagara frontier, serving most of the time on detached duty, building barracks and other mechanical work; was taken sick near Black Rock, and offered a discharge, but only accepted a furlough that he might come home for medicine. He never was quite well afterwards, although a great worker. Reports seem to indicate that he was twice married, but have nothing to prove the statement. Dec. 12, 1803, he was shot by John, a Delaware Indian, who was arraigned in Court, pleaded guilty and was hanged, Aug. 17, 1804. As this was the first murder trial held in Cayuga Co., it may be interesting to give account of it, taken from records of the Court. The murder was committed in Junius, then in that County, but now in Seneca County. The trial was held in June, 1804, at Aurora, then the County seat. Judge Ambrose Spencer, of the Supreme Court, presided, assisted by Seth Phelps, John Tillotson, Joseph Annin, and Joseph Beardsly, "Justices of Oyer and Terminer." William Stuart was district attorney, and Samuel Buel, sheriff. The indictment is as follows:

In religion he was a Presbyterian; of good education and strictly temperate, not even using tobacco; of medium height, with dark brown hair and hazel eyes. In the year 1824, he removed with his family to Ohio, making the journey by wagon. The distance to Worthington, Franklin County, from the old home, was about six hundred and forty miles, and twenty-six days were consumed in making the trip. At the time of starting from Middletown, there were other families in the party, but as Mr. Crane declined to travel on the Sabbath day, they became separated; at the end of the journey, however, Mr. Crane arrived two days in advance of the other wing of the party. Ohio was then a sparsely settled country, and, although they found their friends who had previously removed from Orange County, N. Y., to Franklin County, Ohio, it took some little time for the newcomers to adapt themselves to the new surroundings. The next year (1825) they went on to Sunbury, Delaware Co., where they remained through the summer; then a brief stay was made at Monroe, but after another trial at Blendon, Franklin County, the final settlement was made in Licking County. For some years Mr. Crane busied himself in teaching school winters and farming summers. In his latter years he made his home with his son Abram K., until his wife Dorothy died, then he went to live with his eldest son Joseph B., in Illinois. Through the kindness of Mr. John G. Crane, of Baltimore, Md., the writer was permitted to read a memoir of this good man, James C. Crane. It was written by J. L. Burrows, D.D., pastor of the First Baptist Church, of Richmond, Va., and published at Charleston, S. C., by the Southern Baptist Publication Society, in 1858. Dr. Burrows here pays Mr. Crane the highest compliments for his manly and Christian qualities, and presents him as an ideal for other men to follow. Surely no person could read that little book without entertaining the thought that the Crane family have at least furnished one life to be a worthy example for imitation.

It appears that his brother William located in Richmond, Va., in 1812, and started in the leather trade; that in 1819, James, at the age of sixteen, went there as a clerk in this store. After a few years he was admitted a partner, and soon another store was opened in Baltimore, Md., William attending to that, while James conducted the one at Richmond. In 1842 the partnership was dissolved, William taking the business at Baltimore, and James that at Richmond. As early as March, 1817, Mr. Crane was baptized into the Baptist Church, and ever until his death, walked in the true faith of his Lord and Master, giving freely of his time, talent and means for the furtherance of religion.

Her daughter Harriet, now Mrs. Francis Taylor, in writing about her mother, recites an incident that occurred during the civil war that speaks so much for the character of the woman that it certainly deserves a place here: "A draft of soldiers had been called for in our county. I happened to be the one to admit the officer to the house. He told me his business, and I called my mother from another room to meet him. He told her in an offhand and somewhat offensive way that he was taking names of all male members of each family in that part of the county preparatory to drafting; took out his pen, and opened his great book. I looked at my mother, who was an exceedingly handsome woman, with faultless physique, wondering what her reply might be. She stood a moment; then, with impressive dignity, said: 'Sir,

I have three sons only,—one of them is in a southern prison, another was in the battle of Fort Fisher, and we await the tidings of his death. The last one lies at the point of death in this house from a wound received in a late battle. I have three daughters; if they can be of any service to their country, take them.' The great book closed with a slam, and the officer bowed in deepest respect and said, 'Madam, you have done your duty.' 1617. JOSIAH CRANE⁷ [857], (Benjamin,⁶ Josiah,⁵ Edmund,⁴ John,³ John,² Jasper¹), married Oct. 6, 1821, Keziah Saxton Sturgis, who was born near Circleville, N. Y., Feb. 21, 1805. She died Aug. 9, 1884. He was born Aug. 24, 1795, on the Crane homestead settled by his grandfather Capt. Josiah Crane, in the town of Wallkill, near Middletown, Orange Co., N. Y. His early life was spent with his father working on the farm. About the age of 16 he met with a serious accident caused by the running away of a team of horses, depriving him of his left arm near the shoulder, and almost of his life. After much suffering he finally recovered; and, being possessed of a strong intellect and a studious disposition, he prepared himself for the work of teaching, a vocation he followed for many years. He was elected justice of the peace, and also collector of taxes; both of which offices he held by reelection for many years.

In the spring of 1842 he removed to Burlingham, Sullivan Co., N. Y., where he remained until 1860, and then returned to his native town, where he spent his remaining years.

Squire Crane, as he was universally known, was a great reader, a deep thinker, and a ready debater,—a man of decided literary tastes and culture. He was greatly respected for his many Christian virtues and rectitude of character.

Two or three weeks before his death he attended a revival meeting in a Methodist Church near his home. Although bent with the weight of years, and suffering from bodily infirmities, he walked to the church in the evening, and delivered a powerful and affecting exhortation to the unconverted. Those who heard him said that he spoke like one inspired and conscious of his approaching end.

A few days later he was stricken with apoplexy, and died April 13, 1869. He was buried at the Circleville Presbyterian Church, of which he was one of the founders and an elder for forty years. The whole community loved and respected him during his life and mourned his death. Children :

Jan. 1, 1826, he married Hannah Elsie Hickman, who was born March 22, 1803, and died Dec. 17, 1875. Mr. Crane was a devoted Christian, an active worker in the Presbyterian Church, and for many years superintendent of the Sunday-school, acting until the infirmities of health forced him to relinquish the work. STEPHEN CRANE, OF ELIZABETHTOWN, NEW JERSEY, AND HIS DESCENDANTS.

FIRST GENERATION.

1. STEPHEN CRANE,¹ born about 1630 or 1635. Some have claimed he was born as early as 1619, but that date seems too early from a careful consideration of the whole subject. Tradition says he came from England or Wales between the years 1640 and 1660. He was one of the original settlers of Elizabethtown, and one of the company of colonists who planted the first English settlement in what is now the State of New Jersey. He was called one of the "Elizabethtown Associates," and was there as early as 1665, for he took the oath of allegiance to Lord King Charles II. and his successors February 19th of that year. The deed by which the first settlers claimed their land was dated Oct. 28, 1664, so that the fall of 1664 or spring of 1665 would be quite as early as it is safe to fix the date of the settlement. In 1675 he obtained from the proprietors of East Jersey a patent to confirm his title to lands in Elizabethtown; dates given below. In 1710 he executed a deed to his son Nathaniel, giving him his house lot, with other pieces of land in Elizabethtown; and, in describing the bounds of these lands, they were said to be bounded on lands of John Crane, Daniel Crane, Jeremiah and Azariah Crane. The fact that he settled within such close proximity to the family of Jasper Crane might indicate that there was a family connection existing between them; but up to the present time no proof of any blood relationship has come to light. Samuel H. Congar, Esq., late librarian of the New Jersey Historical Society, who gave careful consideration to the subject, wrote that "this Stephen was probably nearly related to Jasper Crane, of Newark," and that he came to New Jersey from Connecticut. Rev. Jonathan T. Crane was also of the opinion that he was a relative of Jasper. Isaac Watts Crane, Esq., in December, 1848, stated that it was his opinion that this Stephen was either a son or a brother of Jasper Crane, of Newark,—that the Elizabethtown Cranes claim descent from Jasper. We first meet with him at Elizabethtown where he lived; prior to the year 1664 we have no knowledge of his origin beyond tradition. He was active in resisting the claims of the proprietors in the great land dispute, which was never settled. His name appears as defendant in the Elizabethtown bill in chancery, schedule No. 8, page 104. The answer to this bill was printed in 1752. This land was surveyed to him in the year 1676,—one Warren for 120 acres in Elizabethtown, dated March 28th; another of 156 acres, October 2d; still another of 156 acres, November 30th. One of these 156-acre lots was bounded by Crane's Brook, east by the Mill Creek, and east by the highway. His six-acre house lot was a part of this tract. By his will, dated 1709, he bequeathed to his son John a certain piece of land within the bounds of Elizabethtown, and died a few years later.

Rev. Elias N. Crane contributes the following, found among the papers of his father, Rev. Elias W. Crane, son of Noah, and the account purports to come from Mr. Isaac Crane, of Elizabethtown, son of Caleb, Jr., great-great-grandson of Stephen senior: "About 1625 A. D., thirty years before Elizabeth Town, N. J., was settled, during the persecutions of the Puritans in England under Queen Elizabeth, the ancestor of the Crane family came to America. His name was Stephen. The ship in which he came is supposed to have sailed from the west of England, favored at embarkation by a fog, which allowed escape in case of pursuit. When the fog passed away the ship was out of sight of land. It is said to have sunk at Amboy, N. J., but all on board were saved. Stephen Crane and his fellow voyagers settled Elizabeth Town, named for Queen Elizabeth, who confirmed the purchase of lands from the Indians." This Isaac Crane was born July 20, 1766, about one hundred years after the settlement of Elizabeth Town, and it would seem that at that time there might have been some connecting link to bind the history of the early settlement to the period in which this Isaac Crane lived. We often find one life to span that interim; certainly two would have done it from father to son; it could have been handed down to Isaac or some other member of the family. But let us analyze this bit of history. If this Stephen Crane came to America, as indicated, in 1625, for the purpose of assisting in establishing a settlement, he must have been twenty or twenty-five years of age, and we know he lived until 1710; therefore he would be one hundred and five years old at his death, a very improbable event; again, in the natural course of things, his children would have been born twenty or thirty years earlier than they were born. People exposed to the hardships of those days seldom reached the age of seventy-five and children were born to them usually before the parents were seventy or even sixty-five years old. Again, if Stephen had been in this country thirty years before the settlement of Elizabeth Town, we should find some record of it somewhere. From all that can be proven, this Stephen Crane was born about 1630 or 1635 in England, and probably was son of Jasper, perhaps by a former marriage. It is said that his wife was a Danish woman, with red hair, and that nearly all the Cranes in and about Elizabethtown and Westfield, N. J., are descendants from this pair. Children :

He died in February, 1723, leaving a will dated Feb. 7, 1722, and proved Feb. 16, 1723 (see Trenton, Liber A, page 238), in which he mentioned his brother Jeremiah and ten children. Three of his sons were minors at the time of his death. His saw and grist mill located on the Rahway River he gave to his sons John and Joseph, which property was retained in the family many years. Esther Williams Crane made a will March 17, 1742, proved Sept. 17, 1748, in which she named Jacob DeHart one of the executors. 552. JOHN CRANE⁵ [218], (David,⁴ David,³ Daniel,² Stephen¹), at an early age left his home in Kent Co., Md., and went to sea, about the year 1800. While sailing as mate of an East Indian merchant vessel, the captain died, leaving the mate, then but eighteen years of age, in command of the ship. The trip proved successful, and the owners were so well pleased with the conduct of the young commander that he was continued some years in that position, and until he married, and at the solicitation of friends, gave up the seafaring life, and removed to Harford, where his brother David had been living, but then deceased. Later he resided for a time in Queen Anne's County, but shortly prior to his death, he took up his residence in Chester Town, where he died Jan. 15, 1827. He married Anne ———.

Mrs. Alfred Stille furnishes the following, which was related to her by her father David Crane Blackiston: "The battle of Caulk's Field was fought near Tolchester, about ten miles below Chester Town, Kent Co., Md., Aug. 30, 1812. There was great consternation among the people of Chester Town, because Sir Peter Parker, commander of the British forces, made oath on landing that he 'would burn Chester Town, or eat breakfast in hell.'

"The American forces were under command of Col. Philip Reed, and several of David Crane's sons were in the engagement, having volunteered as soon as danger appeared. Philip, who was named for his kinsman, Col. Philip Reed, was among the number. The British lost fifteen men and Sir Peter Parker was mortally wounded by a stray buckshot, and died before reaching his boat. Thus Chester Town and other places along the shore were spared the proposed destruction. Philip Crane received a wound in the hip early in the engagement, but dropping on his knees continued to load and fire until the battle was over, and, as the shot which struck Sir Peter Parker came from the direction of Philip Crane, it was supposed he fired the fatal shot. After the close of the battle, Peter Crane was carried from the field, and his wound cared for, although he was lame throughout his life."

“DIED—November 15, 1858, at the residence of Dr. Abraham Street, Harford County, Md., JOHN CRANE, Esq., of Preston County, Va., aged 59 years, 2 months and 19 days. Mr. Crane was a prominent citizen of Preston, his native county, and will be much lamented and greatly missed by an extensive circle of friends. He was eminently a business man. Twenty-three years since he emigrated to the beautiful portion of the county known as ‘The Pine Swamp.’ Under the hand of industrial enterprise the wilderness was rapidly changed to fruitful fields. At the time of his death Mr. Crane had in his plantation one thousand acres of improved land in the midst of a prosperous and growing settlement. A thriving little town had arisen upon his premises, which, in honor of its founder, is called Craneville. For many years he has been the medium of exchange between the eastern markets and the principal stock dealers of the county. But he lived not for this world alone. Twenty-seven years since, with his companion, he embraced the gospel, ADDENDA.

IN compiling records for this volume several families have been discovered that it was impossible to place with absolute certainty in either of the four main lines given in the body of the work; but that all records collected may be preserved and made available for future reference, they have been placed in this addenda, thus giving an opportunity for others to solve the problem.

No doubt the following are descendants from New Jersey Cranes, and perhaps from Jasper:

The wife of Chilion Crane (59) writes that Jesse Crane, born at Hanover, N. J., was father of Asa and Jesse Crane, brothers, who settled in Bridport, Vt. But Mahlon Crane (58) wrote that he thought his grandfather's name was Abijah, that he died, leaving four young boys, names as given below. David probably served in the Revolutionary war, from Morris Co., N. Y., and Daniel from Essex.

1. DANIEL; served in the Revolutionary war, and was killed. 2. DAVID; left New Jersey at the close of the Revolutionary war, and not heard from.
- 53—3. ASA, b. July 16, 1758; his granddaughter says Asa's father was Jesse Crane.
- 54—4. JESSE, b. Aug. 29, 1760.

55. ASA CRANE [53], born in New Jersey on the banks of the Passaic River; lived there until after his marriage. His son Mahlon writes that his father was with Washington's army four years; was at Valley Forge with the army; was near by when Major Andre was taken and hanged; was at the battle of Monmouth, N. J.; also at the battle of Princeton, where he was wounded in the leg. Was a Revolutionary pensioner. Married Abigail Young, Dec. 28, 1784. She was born Sept. 26, 1765, and died Jan. 5, 1839. He died Sept. 23, 1848, at Bridport, Vt. She died there also. As near as it can be ascertained he was born at or near Hanover Neck, N. J., and married, and lived there until his three eldest children were born. The family then removed to Goshen, Orange Co., N. Y., where they remained a few years, when they removed to Lumberland, Ulster Co. Here they lived about ten years, when in the year 1808 they removed to Bridport, Vt., where his brother was then living. In the official register of officers and men of New Jersey in the Revolutionary war we find the name of Asa Crane, Morris County, also Somerset 1st battalion, also State troops, and also Continental army, which quite likely refers to this Asa Crane; and as serving in Capt. Piatt's company, 1st battalion, second establishment; also in militia. The following information was obtained by Mrs. Johnson, a granddaughter of Asa Crane: "He enlisted in May, 1778, in the Revolutionary war, and served as private for nine months in Capt. Daniel Piatt's company, Col. Ogden's regiment, Gen. Maxwell's brigade, New Jersey line. He was stationed at this time at Valley Forge and Mt. Holly. He was engaged in the battle of Monmouth, and was honorably discharged at Elizabethtown, N. J. He also served several times in other tours of military service, but records did not say where. He applied for a pension from Addison County, Vt., April 1, 1818. The pension was allowed, and he received it regularly until his death, which occurred in 1849 or 1850. These facts were obtained from the pension office." Children:

1. CALVIN, b. Aug. 24, 1787; m. Jemima Quick, and removed to Pike County, Pa.; a farmer.

62. JESSE CRANE [54], married Jan. 1, 1784, Mary Mulford, who was born Dec. 12, 1765. He was born in New Jersey, and settled in Bridport, Vt., in the year 1800, and was the first of the two brothers to go to Vermont; a farmer. They were members of the Presbyterian Church, and he was a deacon. He died March, 1824. She died Dec. 27, 1838. There was a Jesse Crane who served in Capt. Stephen Munson's company, Easton's battalion, Morris County, N. J.; also in Continental army, and in fourth battalion, second establishment; also in militia. Children:

By this marriage he had two children. She died, and in 1847 he married his third wife, who was living in January, 1882, having had one child, a daughter, born about 1850. In the fall of 1820, Mr. Grinnell left his home in ———, and took up wild land in Barre, Genesee Co. (since 1824 Orleans County), for the purpose of making a home, and will give the story as he penned it: "I told you the trade with the Tinkham boys; they married my sisters, and I married theirs. I located my land in the fall of 1820, and built a place to come to in the winter. There was not much snow that winter, and one of the Tinkham boys and I had a pair of three-year-old steers between us. We bought a pair of old wagon wheels, made a cart, yoked the steers, took our axes, cooking utensils, bed clothes, two cows, and started for our new home. From second day of April until fore part of June we kept our own house, boarding ourselves; our cows both gave milk, and we got some baking done about a mile away at our nearest neighbor. We took turns cooking. Sunday morning we had shortcake and butter. One would do the chores, milking, &c., while the other would attend to the cooking, make the butter, &c. About the middle of June our wives' fathers came out with wagons, bringing their goods. Our nearest neighbors were west one mile, north two and a half miles, east three miles, south ten miles, the Indian Reservation lying between us, and settlers south. I now (1882) have a home farm of 197 acres, with three houses and four barns, and a 62½ acre timber lot. We are half way between Rochester and Buffalo. We raised last season one thousand bushels of wheat and forty acres of barley now on the ground. I have seven boys,—two that work my farm; one living three miles south of here; one in St. Clair County, Mich.; another in Coldwater, that State; one in Chicago at the stock yards; and one in Iowa.

"I cannot tell you the name of the town in New Jersey Uncle Stephen found his father Moses Crane; but he afterwards came to New York State to see his children in Spafford, Onondaga Co., and my father and mother and Uncle Stephen came with him to my house to see us; that was the only time I saw Grandfather Moses Crane. Uncle Stephen and my father farmed it together in partnership thirty-five years. They removed from Saratoga County to Oneida Co., town of Augusta, and from there to Pompey, Onondaga County, and from there just over the line into Fabius, then to Spafford, where they died. I left Barre in 1854, having purchased a farm in Shelby, an adjoining town, and three miles distant, where I now reside."

She was born at the Wood family mansion in Prince George's County, Md., and in 1822 removed with her parents to Rapides Parish, La. After her marriage they settled in Alexandria. To this good woman we are deeply indebted for nearly every particle of information respecting this line of Maryland and Virginia families, and from her letters written to Mr. Herbert Henry Crain, of Key West, Fla., these records have been chiefly taken. She writes: "The Virginia Crains and my father's family are undoubtedly the direct descendants of one of the brothers who came from Wales and settled in that State (Virginia), and scattered out as his posterity increased, into the adjoining State of Maryland and the far off State of Louisiana. The number of my grandchildren is 42 or 43, and of my great-grandchildren enough to settle a small colony." She writes further: "Tradition says the three brothers who came over from Wales were wealthy and of high standing. One settled in Virginia (my grandfather's ancestor); one in Maryland; a descendant of the latter married my grandfather Wood's sister, and Judge Peter Crain, of Annapolis, Md., was a son." (See page 583.)

There were others of the name. One was Dr. Robert Crain. They were contemporaries with my grandfather's family, and distantly related. Their names I do not remember. The general Court of Connecticut colony ordered that no young, unmarried man, unless he were a public officer or had a servant, could keep house alone, except by license of the town under a penalty of 20 shillings per week, and that no head of a family should entertain such young man under a like penalty, without liberty of the town. Hard lines! The joys of single blessedness were much alloyed, it would seem. Today it is different. The bachelor is happy—let us hope that he is happy. He certainly is independent. It is easy for him to explain why it is manifestly impossible for him to undertake matrimony—"a crazy experiment."

Related Families.

The Parkes of New England and the Cranes are related. Richard Parke, colonist, married Margery Crane in England. They had two daughters. One, Isabel Parke, became the wife of Francis Whitmore.

The important family connection is with the Treats, with Richard Treat and wife, Alice Gaylard, the colonists. They settled at Wetherfield, Ct., in 1637, where Richard became a man of social standing, prominent in civic affairs. His son, Robert Treat, was governor of Connecticut, and died at Milford, Ct., in 1710, aged 83 years. He was commander in chief of the Connecticut quota of men engaged in King Philip's war and had the rank of major.

Robert was re-elected governor for many years, but at the age of 86 he declined re-election. He was one of those who saved Connecticut's charter when it was demanded by Andros, October 31, 1687.

Governor Treat had sisters. They married into the families of Deming, Hollister and Campfield. The governor married, first, Jane, daughter of Edward Tapp, and, second, Elizabeth, daughter of Elder Michael Powell. This was Elizabeth's third marriage. Her other husbands were Richard Hollingsworth, and Richard Bryan. The governor's wife was Elizabeth.

In records of Newark, N. J., and the Cranes and Treats abound, as were among the early settlers of town, moving there from New England.

Records of the Cranes and Treats are found in the following books: "Connecticut quarterly magazine," "Hartford County," by Trumbull; "New Britain," by Andrews; "Early Puritan Settlers," by Hinman; "Norwalk," by Silleck; "Milford Tombstone Inscriptions," "Hartford Probate Records," "Wetherfield," by Stiles, and genealogies of the families of Coleman, Hollister, Deming, Wolcott, Hall, Goodwin and Webster, the last named by Noah Webster. Also records are available in "Registers of Colonial Wars" and of the "Society of Colonial Dames," for New York state.

As to the Webster family, Lieutenant Robert, son of Governor John Webster, married, in 1672, Susanna Treat, who was probably a sister of Governor Treat.

The Coat of Arms.

The armorial of the Cranes herewith shown was a fesse between three cross-crosslets.

This is similar to the coat armor used by Jasper Crane, colonial ancestor, with the exception, that besides the crosses there are also three rings, or amulets.

Several armorials are ascribed to the Cranes—grants for special deeds of valor. One coat of arms blazons a crane for crest, a "crane or," or a golden crane.

A list of genealogies published will be forwarded to any one enclosing a stamp. Special research will be undertaken, if desired, and drawings of coats of arms in their proper colors furnished. All inquiries will be answered personally if a postage stamp is enclosed. Letters may be addressed to Miss Frances M. Smith, Chappaqua, Westchester county, New York.
